Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Lack of Communication

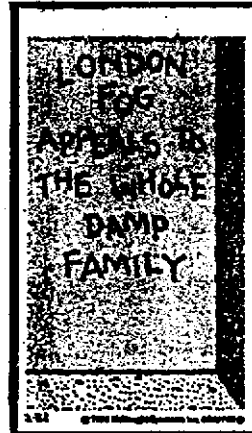

Q. We have a deaf mute in the family who is slowly going blind. Is there some agency or school in the L.A. area that could teach him some other method of communication? The sign language which he uses now will be useless to him soon. H.D.J., Long Beach.

A. Take him to the office of the California State Rehabilitation Dept. at 230 E. Fourth St. John Bilcon, the supervisor of the office, explained there is a hand tap system for both deaf and blind people which is taught by the state's special education division. Those seeking to take the course will be examined first to determine the extent of their handicaps.

Lower the Boom

Q. I have an idea for preventing sonic booms. Can you tell me the name and address of a company that might be interested in this sort of thing? W.C.R., Lakewood.

GRAFFITI by Leary

A. The Boeing Company is probably your best bet. However, the possibility of your invention being feasible is about "one million to one," according to one spokesman in the aircraft industry. The spokesman said that "the best scientific heads in the world have been constantly working to solve the problem of sonic boom." Nevertheless, Boeing would like to hear what you have to say. The company suggests you protect your invention by having it patented, or at least notarized, before submitting it to them. Correspondence should be sent to: Glen Orlove, Boeing Co., P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Wash. 98124.

Impeach That Source

Q. We have a question which has caused heated discussions and wonder if it would be possible for ACTION LINE to help settle family and neighborhood arguments? We have heard from reliable sources that Walt

Action Line

Disney Productions has been sold within the past year to a New York syndicate. Can this be verified? G.C.H., Lakewood.

A. Your "reliable sources" are not so reliable. Carl Walker, executive vice president of Walt Disney Productions, says it is not true. Furthermore, he adds, the company is not for sale.

Garden Group

Q. I would appreciate very much if you could tell me if there is an organic gardening club in this area. I should like very much to experiment with this type of gardening in my own backyard and would appreciate any information on the subject. Mrs. R. B., Long Beach.

A. The nearest we could find is the Santa Monica Organic Garden and Nutrition Club. Martin Fritz, president, says members meet the first Wednesday of each month at McKinley High School, 2401 Santa Monica Blvd., Santa Monica. Fritz says the club is designed to encourage backyard gardening without the use of pesticides or other chemicals. Books on the subject also are available at the Long Beach Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard. Two are "The Organic Way to Plant Protection" and "How to Grow Vegetables and Fruits by the Organic Method."

Unclean

Q. Will ACTION LINE please tell me how to clean the grout between tiles. We recently bought an old place with lots of tile. I have tried everything anyone has told me, but nothing seems to work. Mrs. J.W.B., Long Beach.

A. Home maintenance books at the Long Beach Public Library advise it often is impossible to clean grout once it has become stained or discolored. They suggest that scouring powders, tile bleach and paint remover be tried. Another suggestion was to use folded sandpaper.

HOW TO USE ACTION LINE

When calling or writing with a problem or question, give your name, address and telephone number—not for publication, as only readers' initials are used in the column—but to help ACTION LINE help you. Include pertinent information but please don't send original documents or pictures that you want returned.

The volume of mail makes it impossible to answer or acknowledge every question. Each question, however, is carefully read and considered. Because of the delay in transcribing telephone messages recorded on ACTION LINE's special number, 432-3451, mail requests often receive prompter attention than phone calls.

Persons seeking information contained in past ACTION LINE items may visit the newspapers' library, Room 208, The Independent, Press-Telegram Building, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays for help. Phone calls to ACTION LINE through the regular Independent, Press-Telegram switchboard will not be put through.

N. Viets Conquer in Laos

6,000 Reds Take Strategic Airstrip, Plain of Jars

VIENTIANE, Laos, Saturday (U) — Tanks and about 6,000 North Vietnamese Army troops seized Xiang Khouang airstrip early today and by midday controlled virtually all of the strategic Plain of Jars, official sources said.

They said the tanks led the attack, ripping gaps in the defenses for assault units of two regiments committed to the battle.

The attack began at 1 a.m., they said, and at 3:15 a.m. a wounded radio operator sent an urgent message saying the airstrip had been overrun. He asked for air strikes to blow up the ammunition dump and command post. Sources in Vientiane said the strikes were made and the dump and command post destroyed.

THE ATTACKERS' thrust carried them to Ban Thang, a landing zone eight miles southwest of Xiang Khouang, where most of the airstrip's 1,200 defenders had regrouped, sources said.

They added that the government troops, mainly Meo tribesmen, were continuing to withdraw toward the hills to the west.

It was reported they probably were preparing to pull back near Meo Gen. Vang Pao's secret mountain headquarters at Long Cheng, 30 miles southwest of the Plain of Jars.

"It appears to be as orderly a withdrawal as possible... it's no rout," one source said, "but

Sprinkles Due; Winds Die Down

Roaring winds which broke windows, felled trees and whipped up dust across the Southland diminished Friday as utility company crews cleaned up debris.

The Los Angeles Weather Bureau predicted variable cloudiness with chance of a few sprinkles or light showers today instead of winds and sun.

TEMPERATURES will remain about the same.

Small-craft warnings remained in effect for winds of about 30 miles per hour along the coast.

There were still some power failures early Friday, but Southern California Edison officials said the worst was over.

"It's a big cleanup job now," one official said. "There's enough work to keep a hundred crews busy."

UC Regents Approve Tuition; Reagan Wins

Political Parley On at CSLB

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke will not cancel a statewide Peace and Freedom Party conference that goes into full swing at California State College at Long Beach today, college officials say.

They denied earlier reports that Dumke backed down when Acting College President Donald Simonsen threatened to resign if the three-day conference was cancelled.

Dr. Simonsen, contacted at a Long Beach Superior Court hearing on an injunction barring disruptive campus demonstrations, said Dumke never directly asked him to cancel the conference and said he didn't threaten to resign "on that issue."

But he said he couldn't remain in office "if the climate of free inquiry on campus were destroyed."

"IF POLITICAL activity of all kinds is to be banned from campus — and you can't ban one political event and not others — it would destroy the climate of free inquiry," Dr. Simonsen said.

Earlier, CSLB News Bureau Director Bob Wells said Dr. Simonsen had stated that he'd have "no recourse but to resign" if Dumke canceled the conference.

According to Wells, Dr. Simonsen made a strong case for letting the conference proceed in a series of telephone conversations with Dumke and chancellor's office officials Thursday night and Friday morning.

The acting president told them that campus Peace and Freedom — sponsors of the conference — had gone through proper college channels and "followed all the rules" in scheduling the conference.

Dumke, in San Jose Friday, said he'd consider the matter, Wells said.

On Friday afternoon, a chancellor's spokesman issued the following statement:

"I informed the appropriate officials at Cal-State Long Beach that as a result of discussions between Chancellor Dumke and Acting President Simonsen, Dr. Dumke was not going to take any action on the conference."

WELLS SAID Dumke

Bar Unit Will Probe 'Chicago Seven' Trial

Combined News Services

A section of the American Bar Association decided Friday to investigate the "Chicago Seven" riot trial and U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman's contempt judgments against the defendants and two lawyers.

Jerome J. Schestack, a Philadelphia attorney who is chairman of the individual rights and responsibilities section, will appoint a committee to investigate the trial and report to the next meeting in May.

ANY OFFICIAL public stand is subject to approval of its board of governors, ABA's executive arm.

The 15 officers and members of the section declined to comment publicly on any aspect of the discussion. Additionally they overruled Shiestack and closed their Atlanta, Ga., meeting to newsmen.

But word of the proceedings leaked out anyhow. It was learned, for example, that some members feel the sentences given the defendants and lawyers William Kunstler and Leonard I. Weinglass might be unconstitutional. If the committee — and the ABA — take this position, it could mean formal entry of the ABA in support of appeals from Hoffman's verdicts.

The Supreme Court has ruled that a defendant is entitled to a jury trial if his sentence exceeds six months. Hoffman sentenced seven defendants and two attorneys, William M. Kunstler, and Leonard I. Weinglass, to a total of more than 15 years in prison for contempt of court.

Kunstler's sentence was four years and 13 days and Weinglass, 20 months and 5 days.

IN CHICAGO, Judge Hoffman Friday imposed sentences of five years in prison and $5,000 fines on the five militant protest leaders convicted of coming to Chicago to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

The terms — ordered to run concurrently with sentences previously meted out to the five men for

First Time in School's 102 Years

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Regents of the University of California voted 16-6 Friday to impose tuition — which they called "an educational fee" — for the first time in the 102-year history of the institution.

The decision was a personal political triumph for Gov. Ronald Reagan who has strongly urged tuition ever since the firing of Clark Kerr as president of the 106,000-student university system in 1967.

At present California residents pay $300 in fees per school year for medical and other services but make no payment for the cost of their education.

The regents established an educational fee schedule requiring undergraduates to pay an extra $150 this autumn and an extra $300 in September 1971. New graduate student fees would be $100 this fall and $300 next year.

The new fees would also apply to out-of-state students who unlike residents, already pay tuition. The average cost of resident Girl Suspect in Tate Case Flies to L.A.

Patricia Krenwinkel arrived at Los Angeles International Airport after a flight from Mobile, Ala. Friday night to stand trial in the Sharon Tate murders.

At Mobile, she had kissed relatives goodbye and walked freely to the plane between a pair of Los Angeles police sergeants, who escorted her throughout the flight. She wore a camel-colored plaid dress and black shoes.

THE TAKEOFF from Mobile Municipal Airport, delayed one day because of poor flight schedules, ended an 11-week fight against extradition for Miss Krenwinkel, who faces seven murder counts.

The brown-haired suspect had been lodged in Mobile city and county

U.S. Suffers Heavy Losses in 5 Battles

Combined News Services

SAIGON — Communist forces inflicted heavy losses on American units Friday in five separate battles that ranged from the northern quarter of South Vietnam to the area around Saigon. In three of the battles, the U.S. command reported, Communist troops killed eight Americans, wounded 50 others and shot down an Army helicopter without taking a single apparent casualty themselves. In the two others, U.S. troops killed 17 Communists without receiving casualties.

The fighting was the heaviest in recent days involving American forces, and the number of casualties was up sharply in comparison with recent battles.

The major battle Friday involved troops of the Americal Division, who fought a Communist force for five hours 27 miles southeast of the northern coastal city of Da Nang. The Communist unit, using mortars and rocket grenades, killed four Americans and wounded 29 others before scattering under fire of American helicopter gunships and artillery.

Big So. Vietnam Economy Move

SAIGON — The South Vietnamese government has clamped new controls on luxury goods imported into the country in a further effort to encourage domestic production, fight inflation and stabilize the economy. The move also is designed to avoid devaluation of the piaster, South Vietnam's official currency, which has been rumored for weeks. Prior to a public announcement, economic minister Pham Kim Ngoc called a meeting of representatives of Saigon's newspapers to advise them he had signed a decree raising the price of newsprint imports $25 per ton in 1978—from $150 to $175. The meeting ended abruptly when the news executives walked out, angered that the price increase had been promulgated without consulting them.

U.S. Apologizes, Pays Cambodia

WASHINGTON — The United States has formally apologized to the Cambodian government and provided payments totaling $11,400 for 35 persons killed or wounded last Nov. 16-17 in air strikes directed at Viet Cong positions in Cambodia, the State Department reported Friday. The U.S. charge d'affaires in Phnom Penh, delivered a note expressing regret for the loss of Cambodian life and the casualties suffered when U.S. planes fired on a village near a Cambodian army post. The embassy handed over the equivalent of $400 to the next of kin of each of the 25 persons killed in U.S. air strikes. The equivalent of $150 was paid to eight persons who were seriously wounded and $100 to each of two other persons less seriously wounded.

Israeli Jets Hit Arab Sites

TEL AVIV — Israeli warplanes hammered Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal Friday in apparent reprisal for the loss of an Israeli plane in a similar strike earlier. Cairo's News Agency reported one Israeli plane was seen crashing in flames on the Israeli side of the canal, but an Israeli military spokesman denied it. Israeli Minister of Information Israel Galili told local journalists their country could not remain neutral to attempts by Arab guerrilla organizations to destroy the regime of King Hussein in Jordan. Complications arose from the presence of Iraqi and Syrian troops in Jordan who are "certainly not supporting" Hussein, he said.

West, East Germany to Meet

BONN — West Germany and its Communist East German neighbor removed the last visible obstacle Friday to an unprecedented meeting between their government leaders, and agreed to open preparatory talks. The go-ahead signal came in a message from the office of East German Premier Willy Stoph accepting chancellor Willy Brandt's offer to go to East Berlin in mid-March. A cable message from Stoph's state secretary said one of his juniors would be ready to receive a Brandt emissary at his East Berlin office March 2.

U.S. Rail Shutdown 'Delayed' 10 Days

WASHINGTON — U.S. District Judge

Howard Corcoran extended a temporary restraining order Friday postponing until midnight March 2 a threatened shutdown of the U.S. railway system over a union contract dispute. After a three-hour hearing, Corcoran promised to decide no later than March 2 whether to issue a preliminary injunction forbidding a selective strike by four shopcraft unions and a retaliatory lockout of all employees by railroad management. "I am not going to rule on a case of this importance now," he told lawyers for the two sides. The hearing followed a breakdown in Miami Beach negotiations between rail management and the four unions over a work rule dispute. On Jan. 31, the unions struck one carrier — Union Pacific — and all U.S. railroads made preparations to shut down operations that evening. The strike and threatened lockout ended abruptly during the day when a U.S. District Court here issued a restraining order effective until midnight Friday. It was that restraining order that Corcoran extended for another 10 days.

New Pollution Disposal Plan

WASHINGTON — Antipollution experts told Congress Friday that the government must devise and pay for new ways to dispose of solid waste material that is increasingly ruining the environment. The experts said the average city dweller now discards five pounds of trash a day. They said the rate is rising from 3.5 to 6 per cent a year and the present disposal systems cannot handle the volume. The call to action came in testimony before the Senate air and water pollution subcommittee on President Nixon's environmental package. The panel is comparing the President's proposals with a more ambitious plan backed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, chairman of the subcommittee.

Airline to Separate Smokers

CHICAGO — Those who applaud separate facilities for smokers and non-smokers on commuter trains won a victory in the airways Friday. American Airlines announced its 747 astroliners will have a separate section for nonsmokers. The airline said it will inaugurate the service March 2 between New York and Los Angeles. American spokesman, said seats will be set aside in both first class and coach sections for nonsmokers. When asked what happens if a husband smokes and his wife doesn't, the spokesman said, "they'll just have to decide before they make their reservation whether they want to sit together or separately."

Solon Raps NASA's High Pay

WASHINGTON — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, scolded NASA administrator Thomas O. Paine Friday for paying consultants $100 a day, sometimes for doing nothing more than eating lunch with a NASA official. Mrs. Smith looked Paine in the eye at a hearing of the Senate Space Committee and told him the situation was "scandalous." She said "Too often the records showed only that a consultant had lunch with someone at NASA as a justification for a $100-a-day payment." Paine said he was "looking intensively" into the problem but said NASA "greatly prizes" the advice it receives from consultants. Mrs. Smith said some $100-a-day consultants had received as much as $13,000 in a single year from NASA.

A Volunteer Army—Regardless

NEW YORK — President Nixon's study commission on the draft is recommending he switch to an all-volunteer Army next year regardless of what happens in Vietnam, CBS News reported Friday. CBS correspondent Dan Rather said that the commission's report "goes far beyond anything President Nixon has indicated previously that he favors." He said Vietnam is not even mentioned in the report and that it recommends the draft be ended in July, 1971. In its place would be a "minimal standby draft" of "eligibles" which could be activated only by Congress, Rather said.

Epileptic Kidnap Victim Found Alive

Combined News Services

Tiny Shaun McLeRoy, a kidnap victim feared near death for lack of medication to combat epilepsy, was found in her blanket in the outskirts of Ozark, Ala. Friday night. She appeared to be in good condition. The 4-month-old girl was located by a member of a search party directed by a note which had been stuffed in the mailbox at her parents' home. She smiled as officers rushed her to a hospital, showing no discomfort for her ordeal.

A doctor at the Ozark Hospital emergency room said she appeared to be "fine." She was transferred to a hospital at nearby Ft. Rucker, where her father, warrant officer Dennis McLeRoy was stationed. The child was found miles from the grocery store where she was abducted Thursday from her mother's car. It took authorities about 45 minutes to find her after the note was discovered.

The note said: "Your baby is in the woods on the Skipperville Road, a quarter mile outside the city limits." At first it was believed to be a hoax. A short time earlier, the baby's mother, Mary McLeRoy, spent five tearful minutes on the telephone with someone whom police described as a "crank."

The child was left about five minutes in her mother's car when Mrs. McLeRoy entered the grocery store. The baby's mother said doctors told her that the kidnaper had taken good care of the child. But she said Shaun had not received any medication during the hours she was missing.

MY LAI MEETING

Former third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace met Friday with Lt. William L. Calley Jr., accused of 102 murders in the alleged My Lai massacre, and said he was "proud" of Calley for defending his country. The former Alabama governor, who is expected to announce for reelection to that office next week, met behind closed doors with Calley and attorney T.W. Burns for nearly an hour. Calley would say only that "mutual" friends of his and Wallace had arranged the meeting. He declined further comment.

FUNERAL RITES

A wounded Green Beret doctor will be taken by ambulance to attend services for his slain wife and two daughters, the Army said Friday. Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald, 26, who said four intruders attacked him and killed his wife and daughters Tuesday, is recovering from a stab wound. The bodies of Mrs. MacDonald, and the two children Kimberly, 6, and Kristen, 2, will be sent to New York Sunday for the funeral.

BAD MEDICINE

Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the top medical man in the government, is reported a little mad. The new American Medical Association congressional directory left his name out. The directory, mailed earlier this week to AMA members, listed Egeberg's title — assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs in the Health, Education and Welfare Department — but left out his name. An AMA spokesman, acknowledging "we just plain left him out," said about 5,000 copies of the AMA's directory omitting Egeberg's name had been mailed. He said several thousand more still will be printed and Egeberg's name will be included.

PRINCESS DIES

German Princess Anastasia Marie von Anhalt, 69, duchess of Saxony, died Friday at the Samaritan Hospital at Vevey, Switzerland. Better known as a painter — she signed her works "Anastasia Young" — the princess had lived for many years at nearby La Tour de Peilz, with her husband, Prince Eugen. Cause of death was not given.

HESS REUNION

Rudolph Hess, the former Nazi deputy fuhrer, met his wife Friday for the second time since he flew to Scotland in 1941 on an unofficial mission to attempt to bring peace between Britain and Nazi Germany. Frau Ilse Hess, 69, visited her ailing husband in a British military hospital where Hess was taken Nov. 24 for treatment of a stomach ulcer. She and Hess' sister, Frau Gerda Rauch, were allowed 30 minutes with the 75-year-old Hess under regulations set up by the four power governors of Spandau prison. Hess had refused to receive his family in Spandau prison, where he is serving a life term. But he did consent to see his wife and 32-year-old son after being taken to the hospital. They met Christmas Eve.

FILHO DIES

Former Brazilian President Joao Cafe Filho died Friday of a heart attack. He was 71. Cafe Filho was hospitalized after suffering a heart seizure Thursday. His only son, Eduardo Antonio de Oliveira Filho, was at his bedside when he died. Cafe Filho served as vice president under Getulio Vargas, the dictator who committed suicide in August 1954.

TOGETHERNESS

Queen Elizabeth II will fly together for the first time with her husband, Prince Philip, Princes Charles and Princess Anne on their tour of New Zealand next month. Buckingham Palace said Friday. They will travel 1,300 miles across the country in an airliner provided by the New Zealand National Airways Corp. The queen decided in 1963, after consultation with the government, that she could fly in the same aircraft with the heir to the throne, Prince Charles.

ERIC HOFFER

Eric Hoffer, a San Francisco longshoreman who gained fame in his later years as an author and columnist, announced Friday that he is retiring. "No more columns, no more television, no more lectures, no more teaching," said the 70-year-old writer. "I'm going to crawl back into my hole, where I started." His sharp, philosophical commentary is carried by nearly 200 daily papers. He said he will do no more after the several written in advance are printed and in July he will end his association with the University of California philosophy department.

Troubles of James Martin

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

James Martin was a proud, happy man last December. A truck driver by trade, he was able to furnish basic comforts for his family in their modest home in the Cerritos area.

Today, it's hard to see the remnants of that pride in James Martin. He lost his job in late December, and was forced to apply for welfare when the money ran low in January.

Martin, with the help of his eight-year-old son, James Jr., kept his quiet pride alive by building a plywood shack from which to sell fresh vegetables.

SLOWLY THE shack took shape, and it was nearly completed when the money for materials ran out and he had to leave it, warping and rusting, in his front yard at 16620 Graystone Ave.

Martin thought he saw the end of his troubles last week, when he found work. The same day, he called the Department of Social Services and told them they could take his name from the roles of welfare recipients.

James Martin's pride was riding high last Wednesday night, when his car ran out of gas. With his son and a passerby to help, and his wife behind the wheel, Martin was pushing the car down a dark stretch of Studebaker Road when another car, its brakes screeching, hit his auto from behind.

MARTIN'S son was killed in the collision. His wife is home from the hospital now, but doctors still do not know the extent of her head injuries. The passerby was unhurt.

Martin escaped with his pride shattered, his heart broken.

Today, Martin speaks of his troubles in a low voice without emotion, and he looks at the ground a lot.

Neighbors say the last of his pride is being chipped away by the people from whom he must seek help.

Martin went to a nearby mortuary, and found they wanted $1,000 to bury his son, according to a neighbor, Mrs. Jo Pedersen.

AFTER THREE other mortuaries, Martin found a place to bury his son — on time-plan payments, for $800.

Mrs. Pedersen, with neighbors Ann White and Mary Johnson, sought help from local churches. They received only condolences from all but one "because Mr. Martin wasn't a paragon."

Pastor Elmer McGuffin of the First Baptist Church in Artesia was eventually reached, and volunteered to aid the family and conduct services for Martin's son.

The neighbors continued through their three-page list of agencies to call, and at the end of it, they had collected $158 in cash, and small donations of food from three local merchants.

"ALL WE GOT was the run around," said Mrs. Pedersen. "The people that helped did all they could, I guess, but how far will that go?"

Mrs. Pedersen said the small group of neighbors will continue to seek help from their headquarters at the home of Jack Whitehouse, 16619 Graystone Ave.

Meanwhile, services for James Martin's son — and possibly the last of his pride — are scheduled Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Westminster Memorial Park.

Arrest of Anderson to Probe 16 Breaks Theft Ring Loss of Ship Work

Associated Press

Sixteen persons have been arrested and more than $40,000 in merchandise has been recovered in the breakup of a Southern California fencing operation connected by police investigators with more than 1,000 burglaries.

Authorities said a much larger amount of goods hasn't been recovered.

More arrests are expected, police said Friday in revealing the arrests made last week.

Charges against the 16 include conspiracy to commit burglary, burglary and receiving stolen property.

OFFICERS said the breakup of the operation stemmed from an investigation by Beverly Hills police and the Sheriff's Department into a burglary ring involving a former Texas police chief.

Joseph P. Kimble, Beverly Hills police chief, said the investigation began after the Jan. 11 arrests of Wayman Dial, 35, former San Marcos, Tex., police chief, and Carmen Falcone, 27, on suspicion of burglarizing a Beverly Hills home.

Subsequent investigation led to the arrest of a 35-year-old West Los Angeles man who supplied information which led to the other arrests, Kimble said.

Kimble said the larger burglary and fencing organization was involved in more than 1,000 burglaries in Los Angeles, Orange and San Bernardino counties.

Kimble reported one of the burglaries last December netted $40,000 in loot from the Claremont home of Millard Sheets, a noted architect-designer.

Some of the recovered items belonged to Sheets. The burglary ring also trafficked in stolen office machines, Kimble said.

Rep. Glenn M. Anderson said Friday he will ask the Navy to explain why it rejected a $8.4-million bid by a Terminal Island shipyard to modernize five minesweepers and awarded a $12.4 contract to a New York shipyard to perform the same work on five other minesweepers.

A spokesman for Harbor Boat Building Co. said the Navy told his company the bid had been rejected because the firm enjoyed "an unfair advantage" over other West Coast shipyards. The 44-year old company through the years has been awarded many contracts to rebuild and repair the all-wood minesweepers.

In Washington, F. D. Sanders, assistant secretary of the Navy, confirmed the company's bid had been rejected because of "prior knowledge." He declined further comment. Anderson, a Democrat of Harbor City, said he learned of the Navy's action after receiving a copy of a telegram sent to Sanders and signed by eight local labor unions.

THE UNIONS claimed the Navy's explanation it was "revising specifications" of work to be performed on the five West Coast vessels was a "subterfuge."

"Your action will throw hundreds of our members out of shipyard employment," the telegram read.

The union leaders claimed the Navy's action was "an injustice" and "involves the integrity of the government."

The telegram asked Sanders to wire immediately that the Navy would reverse its decision and award the contract to Harbor Boat Building Co.

ANDERSON SAID it was the original intention of the Navy to let a contract to one company, most likely on the East Coast, to modernize all 10 minesweepers. He said he persuaded the Navy to have the work done on West Coast-based vessels in Pacific Coast ports.

The congressman said there are two reasons why his office is interested in the minesweeper matter.

"First, I want to get the lowest possible price for the taxpayers I represent," Anderson said. "Second, the contract would tend to keep skilled shipbuilder workers in this area," he added.

Todd Shipyard in New York was awarded the contract Feb. 2 to do the work on the five East Coast-based minesweepers.

An appeal filed by Harbor Boat Building Co. has been referred to the General Accounting Office, Sanders said.

Debs Sees Merger of Law Units

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

Ernest E. Debs, seeking re-election to the county Board of Supervisors, wants a study on the possible merger of the district attorney's and the city prosecutor's offices.

He said there "appears to be a needless duplication of prosecution activities," and asked the county Economy and Efficiency Committee to look into the matter.

He did not make clear whether the possible merger would involve only the city of Los Angeles or all cities having their own prosecutors.

Long Beach and Los Angeles have separate offices handling misdemeanor prosecutions. So do more than 30 other independent municipalities in the county.

Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger said he prosecutes felonies throughout the county, but does not prosecute misdemeanor cases in independent cities. He does, however, handle both in more than 40 contract cities, including Lakewood and Carson.

Burglars broke into the garage of Marvin Hanson, at 1832 Petaluma Ave., and removed a power saw valued at $130, Long Beach police said Friday.

Taxpayer Groups to Head Charter Revision Witnesses

From Our L.A. Bureau

Spokesmen for taxpayer groups will be the first to testify Wednesday when the county Economy and Efficiency Committee opens its charter revision study to local comment.

The committee has already heard from seven specialists in government from other cities and states.

Three speakers will appear Wednesday to present their views on proposed changes in the form of Los Angeles County's government. The witnesses are Melvin Horton, executive vice-president of the Property Owners Tax Association of California and J. Roy Holland and Frank Thill, both for the California Taxpayers Association.

E and E is considering three aspects of government: whether to give the chief administrative officer more power; whether to remove department heads and other top jobholders from civil service protection; and whether to enlarge the Board of Supervisors.

There are now five board members, each representing a different district. In his original motion calling for changes in county government, Supervisor Kenneth Hahn suggested there should be one for each million residents, which would increase the membership to seven.

SHULTZ FORMULA End Farm Disputes by Worker Election

Combined News Services

SAN FRANCISCO — Labor disputes between growers and farm workers should be settled by worker elections instead of by boycott, Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said Friday.

He said grower operations these days actually are agricultural businesses and they should have the same machinery as industries for worker choice of union representation.

He noted that the Labor Department had undertaken mediation with 12 growers and the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee in the California grape strike, but they had broken down.

"We did succeed in opening up a little bit of communication," he said.

creases and said "I'm sure we're going to see some strong tension at the bargaining table."

He said the Nixon Administration's efforts to slow down the economy are beginning to work but that this is a big bargaining year with approximately 5½ million workers covered by contracts which will be negotiated.

Shultz said he expects the Administration's policies to continue to be effective.

The labor official also said the rate of increase in prices during the second half of 1969 was lower than in the opening half, the first time this has occurred in three years.

SHULTZ said he backs federal legislation to permit farm workers to vote on union representation.

He also said that 1970 may be the year of "strong tension" in labor-management disputes.

"As the economy cools, profits are squeezed and this sends management to the bargaining table with more backbone," he said. He added that unions will also be seeking high wages to make up for price in-

30 ARRESTED

Students, Police Clash at UCLA

United Press International

Thirty young persons were arrested Friday in the second day of protests by UCLA students over the conviction of five of the defendants in the Chicago Seven trial.

Two young women and 28 young men were taken into custody. Most were charged with refusing to obey an order to disperse for creating an unlawful assembly.

One officer was squirted in the face with Mace by a demonstrator.

Two demonstrators were given medical treatment at the scene.

Those taken into custody also were charged with assault on a police officer, failure to disperse and interference with an arrest.

The police and the youths clashed after the officers ruled the demonstration was an "unlawful assembly." Helmeted policemen, wielding clubs, then waded into the crowd.

Thursday between 500 and 1,000 young persons demonstrated near the UCLA campus. There were three arrests and some rock throwing.

Friday's demonstration was broken up after students paraded behind a black coffin in a mock funeral procession. They took the coffin to a Bank of America building and placed it on the ground.

An officer moved into the crowd in an apparent effort to make an arrest. Some of the demonstrators leaped on his back and he was knocked down.

The policeman drew his revolver and struggled to his feet. Other officers moved in to help him and five demonstrators were seized and placed in paddy wagons.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Police broke up a Chicago Seven sympathy march through the downtown area during the rush hour Friday. There were 44 arrests and several minor injuries.

The window in a shop on Wisconsin Avenue, the city's main thoroughfare, was broken and at least two persons suffered minor injuries when struck by police nightsticks.

A police spokesman said several officers received contusions from the sticks of small red flags carried by demonstrators.

Of the arrested, 35 were adults and nine were juveniles. Police said they would be charged with disorderly conduct or unlawful assembly or both, and that battery to a police officer charges would be sought against some.

Laird Sees Big Viet Pullout

WASHINGTON (U) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress Friday additional thousands of American troops can be brought home from Vietnam this year.

It was the closest the defense chief has come to forecasting a substantial withdrawal in the next several months although he recently said further pullouts would be possible under the Vietnamization program.

Laird, reporting on the whole range of defense affairs before the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Nixon administration will have withdrawn 115,000 troops from Vietnam by April 15.

Administration sources reported that Laird found enough progress in Vietnamization — the program for turning the war over to South Vietnam — during a visit to Saigon earlier this month that the next ordered troop cut could exceed 50,000 men.

On other matters, Laird: — Reiterated the administration decision to expand the Safeguard antiballistic missile system. He said this will, among other things, allow the United States to put off decisions to deploy major new strategic weapons while negotiating with the Soviet Union about possible ties.

— Warned that the Soviet Union is building offensive arms "at a rate that could, by the mid-1970s, place us in a second-rate strategic position with regard to the future security of the Free World."

— Said the Nixon Administration, which wants no more Vietnam, is adopting a military strategy that lies between the extremes of becoming overcommitted or cutting all international responsibilities.

Grader Kills Man

Through her attorney, Miss Krenwinkel fought extradition in Circuit Court in Mobile and finally appealed to the State Court of Criminal Appeals in Montgomery which upheld the lower court ruling ordering her returned to California.

Last week, she notified Mobile authorities she wanted to return to Los Angeles "immediately" to face the charges. The seven murder counts were returned by a Los Angeles grand jury.

there's no doubt about it, the plain has gone."

There was no immediate report on casualties. Sources here feared the government losses would be heavy because of the size and ferocity of the North Vietnamese attack.

ONE GOAL of the North Vietnamese campaign is believed to be protection of the Ho Chi Minh trail — a network of infiltration routes through eastern Laos along which the Hanoi government sends troops into South Vietnam.

Had the government troops held control of the plain and then moved farther east, they would have jeopardized the trail.

North Vietnamese-Pathet Lao forces had been driven back in three previous efforts to capture the airstrip.

Col. Thongpan Knosky, a spokesman for the Defense Ministry, said about 200 North Vietnamese troops attacked the airstrip Friday but retreated after a seven-hour fight, leaving 70 bodies on the battlefield.

AN ESTIMATED 20,000 North Vietnamese-Pathet Lao troops launched an offensive Feb. 12 to recapture the plain seized by government troops last year in a surprise victory.

Highly placed sources said air strikes began early Saturday on the charging North Vietnamese troops but it was not known if American planes were involved. U.S. fighter-bombers based in Thailand regularly fly in support of the Royal Laotian forces, which includes Vang Pao's guerrilla army.

U.S. officials in Vientiane said no Americans were involved in the ground fighting.

CSLB MEETING

had told Dr. Simonsen that he "didn't think the conference ought to be held" but had not asked the college president to cancel it.

The chancellor's spokesman said Dumke had not asked Dr. Simonsen to cancel the conference.

CSLB administrators became concerned about the conference as early as two weeks ago, noting that Dumke had canceled a national meeting of the Students for a Democratic Society at Cal-State Los Angeles last month.

One administrator said Peace and Freedom representatives had implied that the conference was to be a campus affair and had not indicated it was a statewide convention.

But a precedent for the Peace and Freedom meeting was set at CSLB last spring when a statewide Libertarian Conference was held on campus.

Alameda Sheriff Sued for $700,000

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two damage suits totaling $700,000 were filed in U.S. District Court Friday against the Alameda County Sheriff's department for injuries incurred in last May's People's Park demonstration.

University of California students Daniel Porter, 18, and Allan H. Francke, 23, filed suits of $200,000 and $500,000.

Porter's suit claims he was "maliciously deprived of his constitutional rights" when he was "lawfully upon a public street."

He was wounded in the thigh and back by gunshot pellets.

Francke is claiming he was unjustly fired upon by sheriff deputies May 15. He suffered wounds in the left hand, and, as a result, three fingers were amputated.

He is an aide at the UC's Cowell Hospital. His suit is against the Alameda County Sheriff Frank Madigan, two captains, and four deputies.

Constellation Due
SAN DIEGO (U) — The attack aircraft carrier Constellation will go to Bremerton, Wash., in May for a major overhaul lasting until next February, the Navy said Friday.

Six hundred families of the Constellation's crew were notified they are eligible for government transportation to Bremerton. The aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk.

C. T. Weber, chairman of Long Beach Peace and Freedom, said the conference would have been held "on the grass outside the cafeteria" if it had been barred from the college buildings.

WEBER CHARGED the college tried a last-ditch attempt to cancel the conference by asking the Peace and Freedom to secure insurance to cover possible damages to college facilities late Friday afternoon.

That problem was solved when Weber signed a statement that the state college Trustees or CSLB "wouldn't be liable for anything that occurred," Weber said.

Peace and Freedom includes socialists, libertarians and radicals of several types and considers itself "the only alternative" to the present two-party system.

There were about 100 advance registrations early Friday night and more were expected for the scheduled opening event, a rock-and-light concert in the cafeteria.

Convention business will include decisions on what candidates the party will put up in this year's elections, whether or not to endorse candidates, and the drafting of a platform.

The party also will detail its plans to make a court challenge of filing fees required in California — for example, $382 to file for governor, $850 for U.S. Senate and $700 for other statewide offices.

three campus police told of three campus trash fires Jan. 14, and showed videotape of Jan. 14-15 demonstrations, taken by campus officer Tracy Bjorkland.

Rader said the demonstrations occurred a month ago and the plaintiff hadn't shown how the same thing could happen again if the injunction wasn't granted.

He also objected to material in affidavits submitted by campus police officers, saying some of it was hearsay and represented unwarranted conclusions. He said conspiracy allegations were without foundation. The fires were not tied to the defendants, he added.

He said there was "insufficient showing of harm" to warrant a request for "extraordinary relief."

2 Regents Appointed by Reagan

SACRAMENTO (U) — Gov. Ronald Reagan announced Friday the reappointment of two University of California regents and appointment of a new one.

Democrat Edwin Pauley of Los Angeles, 67 and senior regent by virtue of 30 years service, was re-named to a curtailed term. He will fill out the two years remaining on the term of Robert Reynolds of Los Angeles, who was reappointed for a full 16-year term.

The new regent is William French Smith of Los Angeles, also named for 16 years. Reynolds and Smith are both Republicans.

Although Pauley is a Democrat, he has agreed frequently with Reagan on issues such as student unrest and fiscal matters.

MAYOR John V. Lindsay of New York was turned down for an honorary degree Friday by the Board of Regents of the University of California.

The action took place during an executive session of the board after Chancellor Roger W. Heyns of the Berkeley campus recommended the degree on behalf of the faculty. Lindsay had been invited to speak at all-university charter day exercises on April 2, marking the 102nd anniversary of the university's founding.

Sixteen votes were required to make the mayor a recipient of the honorary degree. The vote was 11-to-11.

Fire Station

Bids will be opened March 10 for a contract to build a new fire station at Artesia Boulevard and Marquardt in Cerritos. County Fire Chief Richard Houts said he expected a price tag of about $130,000.

TUITION VOTED

students for all expenses now is $2,400 a year.

THE TUITION decision by the regents was generally expected to eventually result in fee increases for the 180,000 now in the state college system, although current law now limits increase in state college fees.

The vote came after an all-day session in which the regents worked out a compromise between two competing plans.

The alternate plans were backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and UC President Charles J. Hitch. They differed principally in the words used, Reagan's calling the charge tuition and Hitch's a "fee increase."

The new tuition plan was expected to produce an extra $15 million in revenue in its first year and $30 million in the second. It provided that students in financial need may defer payment of charges until after graduation on conditions similar to those of student loans.

THE RESOLUTION adopted included a statement reversing California's historic position that the state should provide education. The resolution said the university accepted "the general concept that the student is economically responsible for part of his educational costs."

Gov. Reagan was obviously pleased with the result, but showed irritation in four hours of discussion of some 10 proposed amendments to the plan.

At one point he turned to regent William J. Roth and snapped "a great deal of what has been going on here has been your stalling."

Regent Frederick G. Dutton, an anti-tuition leader, protested that not enough discussion was allowed, charging "a gag, on top of a railroad, on top of a deal."

Hitch voted against the majority. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max J. Rafferty was absent.

absent. "I am sure in my own mind this will limit access to the university," Hitch said.

Tuition was nearly unanimously opposed by faculty and students, some of whom donated blood to be sold to finance advertisements. However, they avoided any large demonstrations, for fear of antagonizing the regents, and only a few dozen pickets appeared briefly at the site of the meeting.

How They Voted on Tuition

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Besides Gov. Ronald Reagan, the following university regents voted Friday in favor of tuition:

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, Allan Grant, Joseph A. Moore, Wendell W. Witter, Philip L. Boyd, W. Glenn Campbell, John E. Canaday, Edward W. Carter, Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, Edwin W. Pauley, Robert O. Reynolds, William French Smith, Dean A. Watkins and Dewitt A. Higgs, board chairman.

Regents voting no, besides university President Charles J. Hitch, were William K. Coblentz, Frederick G. Dutton, William E. Forbes, William M. Roth and Norton Simon.

Mrs. Edward H. Heller abstained, and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty was absent.

GOODYEAR'S 'CARVEYOR' IS DEMONSTRATED BY R. E. PAWLEY Transport Systems Manager for Firm Shows How Compartments Will Move —AP Wirephoto

'Carveyor' Transit System With Wheelless Cars Shown

AKRON, Ohio (U) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. unveiled Friday its "Carveyor" transit system utilizing wheelless cars and conveyor belts to carry passengers at speeds of up to 15 miles an hour.

The company said that San Jose, Calif., already has decided to install six miles of the "mindistance" system and will start construction in mid-1972.

GOODYEAR declined to estimate how much the project will cost San Jose.

The "Carveyor" system is adaptable for use above and below ground and is designed to span short distances, such as between downtown areas and airports, the company said.

From two to 10 passengers can be carried in wheelless cars transported along a system of rollers and conveyor belts, Goodyear said.

The company said that when the cars approach stations, their speed slows to 1½ miles an hour to enable passengers to step out onto a sidewalk belt moving at the same speed.

The continuous movement of the system and the slower station speeds cause cars to bunch together at depots, assuring a steady supply of cars, according to the company.

IT SAID the system could accommodate 22,000 people an hour.

Goodyear said San Jose was one of two cities expressing interest in the transportation method. The company declined, however, to identify the other city.

AEC to Close Nuclear Test Site in Economy Move

HOT CREEK VALLEY, Nev. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday that it was shutting down the supplemental nuclear test site in central Nevada until summer.

Drilling of two emplacement holes for future underground nuclear tests was completed and current nuclear testing schedules do not require additional construction, the AEC said.

Central Nevada was selected as a supplemental testing area to the Nevada test site north of Las Vegas to allow the government to test larger nuclear devices.

No nuclear weapons have been tested here thus far. But once testing begins, the nuclear devices are expected to be larger than any underground tests in history. A supplemental site was needed more remote from populated areas.

The AEC said the central Nevada site would be placed on a caretaker status and probably reactivated in summer. About 14 guards will remain on patrol.

The decision to close down the site primarily was an economy measure designed to save the government an estimated half million dollars. From 60 to 70 men will be relocated and the Holmes and Narver field offices were moved from here to the airport at Tonopah, Nev.

A calibration test named "Faultless" was conducted here in January 1968. It had a maximum yield of one megaton. 50 times more powerful than the atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II.

The AEC announced several months after the "Faultless" detonation here that the test showed central Nevada was a suitable area for detonating high yield nuclear weapons.

Big Hospital Closes Doors to All But Emergency Cases, Children

CHICAGO (U) — Cook County Hospital, one of the world's largest public health institutions, has closed its doors to all but emergency cases and children, and Chicago area hospitals braced Friday for an added influx of patients.

Dr. Robert J. Freeark said late Thursday in announcing the cutback that all surgery except life-or-death cases would be halted and "admissions to adult medical and surgical wards will be limited to emergencies only."

"There is no need at present to restrict admissions of children up to 15 years of age," Freeark added.

Freeark said the abrupt curtailment of services was forced by a sudden jump in the number of beds filled and by a steady drain of personnel which left the hospital short-handed by 171 nurses, 15 supervisory physicians and a large number of technicians.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., urged Health Secretary Robert E. Finch to send representatives to Chicago to determine whether emergency steps can be taken to reopen the hospital to the general public.

Rogers said the curtailment of services was "a frightening example of the health crisis that now exists in America."

HAWAII HOUSE OKs NEW ABORTION LAW

HONOLULU (UPI) — The State House of Representatives Friday approved a bill which would give Hawaii the most liberal abortion law in the United States.

By a vote of 31-20, the lower chamber approved a measure which in essence would make the decision to have an abortion a matter to be decided solely by the mother and her doctor. The only major restriction was a residence requirement of three months before the operation can be performed, and then it must be done by a licensed doctor in a hospital.

The House vote was seen as the critical action. The Senate still must vote on the bill as amended by a joint conference committee, but its approval is expected next week.

Gov. John A. Burns has indicated he favors the liberalization and will not veto it.

Panetta Blasts Injustice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The outgoing director of HEW's civil rights division said Friday the Nixon Administration has shown a "lack of leadership and commitment" to enforce school desegregation rules.

Leon E. Panetta, who announced Tuesday he was yielding to White House and congressional pressure for his resignation, said "the cause of equal justice is being destroyed... by inaction, by confusion, by disunity and by a lack of leadership and commitment" on the part of the Administration.

"We need leadership to stand up and say that the issue is obedience to the law, the issue is a fair break in education for kids who have lost out time and again because of rank discrimination, the issue is the future of this nation's race relations and no amount of escape from reality will change those issues for us."

Addressing the National Education Conference on civil rights, Panetta predicted "there will be more public servants lost because of little or no support for firm enforcement of the law and, in the end, the real losers will be the children."

Ex-Pasadena Lawyer to Aid Desegregation

WASHINGTON (U) — A government lawyer, considered a conservative on school desegregation, will head the staff of a White House task force designed to aid Southern school districts struggling with court-ordered desegregation.

A White House spokesman confirmed Friday reports that Robert C. Mardian, general counsel of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will become executive director of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's Cabinet-level desegregation task force.

Mardian, a campaign worker in Sen. Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential bid, is the highest-ranking conservative in the generally liberal department headed by Robert H. Finch. Mardian has been a frequent antagonist of Leon E. Panetta, the recently resigned liberal head of HEW civil rights efforts, high department sources said.

MARDIAN reportedly favored a softening of desegregation guidelines while Panetta opposed such a move. The guidelines were altered July 3, representing a victory for Mardian.

The purpose of the Agnew task force, scheduled to begin operation March 1, remains unclear.

ROBERT C. MARDIAN Considered Conservative

Agnew has said it will help districts carry out desegregation in the least disruptive way.

"This is a top-level group to attempt to bring the restoration of quality education to those districts who feel that in the construction previously given to the decisions of the court, they suffered to some extent," he said.

The term "quality education" is considered by many civil rights officials as a Southern code term for segregated schools.

The task force is viewed

In some government circles as a further attempt to diminish HEW's already waning role in carrying out Southern school desegregation.

"The Mardian appointment certainly confirms that," said one of the government's highest-ranking civil rights officials.

Mardian was vice president of a Pasadena finance firm before joining the department last year, reportedly not as Finch's choice for the job.

Mardian outlined his views on school desegregation in January before a meeting of the Louisiana School Boards Association in New Orleans.

IN HIS speech, he criticized unnamed civil rights advocates "who seek the elimination of segregation in a manner which fails to make allowances for the problems generated by the previously sanctioned laws and which has tended to polarize public opinion against the reverse evolutionary process."

He criticized such tactics as "school desegregation plans requiring inordinate busing of children and the manipulation of grade structures in such fashion as to make teaching and learning secondary in importance to racial balance."

Alabama Antibusing Law Asked

United Press International

The governor of Alabama called his Legislature into special session Friday to enact what he termed the "New York State freedom of choice law" for the desegregation of public schools.

Gov. Albert Brewer asked the legislators to meet five days next week and pass the law prohibiting the forced transfer of students for racial reasons.

"This is the New York law, and our children are entitled to the same treatment as children of other states," said Brewer.

Similar legislation is being considered in several other southern legislatures.

By WILLIAM MADDEN

Oilmen and Ventura County fire officials say the Thursday blaze at the Rincon Point pier could have been deliberately set. Estimated to have cost $1 million, the fire destroyed 800 feet of the pier, 22 miles south of Santa Barbara.

AFTERMATH OF FIRE AT RINCON POINT
Damage So Severe Pier May Not be Restored

The 40-year-old wooden structure is operated by Mobil Oil Co.

"It was the most complex fire I have ever seen," said Charles Sifton, the fire department's battalion chief, whose crew had to use a relay of seven pumping trucks to get water across a railroad and Highway 101 to reach the flaming pier.

Fire boats anchored nearby were unable to pump water high enough to reach the burning creosote-soaked timbers 30 feet above the sea, he said.

The fire was spotted at 4 p.m. Thursday when an oil company employee was making a routine check about 80 yards offshore where an electric system is located to control pumping operations.

Wellheads on 22 oil wells were enveloped in flames although 15 others on the seaward end of the pier were not touched by the fire.

The pier is about one-half mile long. Oil company spokesman Edward Fulham of Pasadena said the daily oil loss will be 500 barrels per day.

In Santa Barbara, many residents who want offshore oil production stopped were jubilant and in a festive mood following the news that the pier may have been damaged beyond repair.

Oil and fire department crews extinguished the last of the flames late Friday.

A Mobil Oil spokesman said Friday night he agreed with the fire department that arson is not being ruled out at this time but investigations will continue for several days before any statement is issued regarding the cause of the fire.

while being towed by tugs into the harbor.

MARINE fire fighters, sheriff deputies and volunteers were dispatched to the scene. The barge was towed back out to sea, but left a 300-yard slick of flammable gasoline estimated at 105,000 gallons because of a break in one of the craft's 24 tanks.

Humboldt Bay was opened to traffic again at 1:10 p.m.

Gas Danger Ends in Humboldt Bay

EUREKA (UPI) — A barge loaded with 2.5 million gallons of gasoline and diesel oil collided with a jetty entering Humboldt Bay Friday and caused a five-hour fire hazard until it could be towed back to sea.

The coast guard closed the bay to shipping shortly after 8 a.m. when barge No. 18, owned by the Crowley Tugboat and Launch Co., San Francisco, hit the south jetty

Boat Owners File $2.2 Million Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — Two attorneys whose sailboat was coated with oil in San Francisco Bay filed a $2.2-million damage suit in U.S. District Court Friday.

J. Robert Notz Jr. and Thomas F. Wolfe, both of San Francisco, named American President Lines and APL Capt. Joseph Robert Boyd defendants in the class action.

Their complaint alleges that the American Mail Line freighter Las Vegas Victory, whose agent is APL, "negligently spilled... gooey black oil" into the bay Jan. 23.

They said boats in the bay, including theirs, moored in the San Francisco yacht harbor, were "despoiled by thick deposits and streaks of oil."

The suit estimated some 1,000 boats were involved, and figuring $200 for their boat, asks $200,000 general damages. They further asked $2 million on behalf of all counties adjacent to the bay for alleged damage to wildlife, water, and beaches and interference in enjoyment of the bay.

The court is asked to award the money to the Sierra Club or another conservation group and earmark it for programs benefiting the bay area.

Municipal Judge John O. Kane fined Capt. Boyd for violating the fish and game code.

'TOO-WIT! TOO-WOOO!'

BERKELEY (U) — The coeds of Stern Hall of the University of California are busy knitting little things in anticipation of a blessed event. Archimeda is about to become a momma.

Archimeda is a great horned owl who moved in with pretty, redhaired Chris Church, 19, of Richmond, last fall in violation of a university rule on pets.

"WHAT OWL?" asked house mother Dolores Farnsworth coyly when questioned about the bird with the huge yellow eyes.

"We have quite a few owls in the trees around Stern... We really enjoy watching them."

Miss Church also enjoys watching Archimeda hooting gently over a single egg in a cornflakes box-nest on the balcony of the dormitory room.

"Too-wit! TOO-WOOOO!" says Archimeda, cocking her head to one side.

Archimeda's mate, Merlin, lives in a eucalyptus tree next to the dormitory. When the expectant mother isn't settling, she's up there with Merlin too-witling and too-wooling.

Miss Church and the other coeds say they're confident no university is so hard-hearted as to toss an expectant mother out on her tailfeathers.

Methadone Treatment Is Denied

A heroin addict was denied a request by Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Harry Peetris Friday to be released from California's narcotic treatment facility at Corona to take part in a methadone treatment program.

The program at Corona and the methadone program have been accused of being in conflict with each other.

However, the judge said the ruling should not be considered a judgment on the relative merits of either program.

The methadone program is run by Dr. John C. Kramer, a UC Irvine psychiatrist, at the Orange County Medical Center.

Richard C. Evans, 34, Los Angeles, was released from Corona Nov. 26. He entered the methadone program four days later.

Parole officers from Corona's Narcotic Addict Evaluation Authority threatened to revoke Evans' parole if he continued in the methadone program. Methadone is a narcotic.

HELLEBORUS ORIENTALIS... 'Lenten Rose'

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Helleborus Orientalis, "Lenten Rose," of the buttercup family is a hardy perennial that blossoms for about four months, usually beginning in early January. Two of its most desirable qualities are the attractive cup-shaped flowers available in several colors, and mature rich green basal leaves. These are divided into seven or more leaflets that may be used in arrangements.

The interesting single anemone-like flowers last much longer than most of the other perennial blossoms. It is interesting to watch the blooms and the stamens. The petals do not drop off as the stamens fall. Instead, they gradually change from whatever color they are to a charreuse shade. They stiffen out as though ironed then stay in that condition until the ripening seed pods finally burst open scattering the seeds around the mother plants. Finally, the petals gradually drop off.

HELLEBORUS orientalis is disappearing from the gardens and the nurseries. They haven't become as popular as they deserve to be. The belief that they must be planted in shade accounts for this, for they do not thrive.

Thanks to two ardent gardeners, the late Chelsea Bellona, and his wife Dorothy Bellona, it is known that lenten roses need several hours of sunshine to grow the tall flower stalks. The Bellonas cross pollinated the Millette hybrid helleborus with the orientalis and broke the flower color barrier, as well.

Lenten roses must have two to three hours of direct sun on them in the early forenoon or late afternoon. The sun draws the flower stalks to grow.

The cut blooms last longer than some of the other kinds of perennials, if the flower stalks is partly split lengthwise, and the cut flowers kept in a moderately cool room.

The plants grown in containers or in the ground need thorough watering during the hot weather. The roots thrive in a loamy soil consisting of two parts of organic material and three parts of garden soil.

Q. I had a nice dichondra lawn last summer and fed it "Ortho" dichondra food in September. A week later, it died completely. I reseeded it a month later and kept it moist. Nothing grew back since that time. Can you help me? W. L. M.

A. You might have applied too much fertilizer. Or you may have applied the fertilizer properly but to a lawn which had not been watered thoroughly a day or two beforehand. You may have forgotten to hose the fertilizer grains off the leaves. I suggest you keep that lawn deeply moist for at least two weeks, even if you have to water it daily. If there are any seeds left in the lawn, they'll sprout. If there is no growth within the two weeks, reseed the dichondra.

Q. Roots of my beautiful 7-year-old jacaranda tree have reached the surface making it difficult to mow the lawn. Can I prune those shallow roots without killing the tree? If not, what solution do you recommend? T. E. S.

First Prize—a Rose of Some Distinction

First Prize is a deep light red-rose blend hybrid tea. It has the unusual distinction of being the only All-American Rose Selection award winner for 1970.

The giant, beautifully shaped buds are two and one-half to three inches long and classically shaped.

THE HUGE BUDS open into blooms of an exquisite rich pink blend with waxy substance and wonderful fragrance. The inside of the petal is usually lighter, giving a showy two-tone or blend effect to the flowers, which are very large, open-centered and full.

The plants are vigorous, bushy and produce a wealth of blooms on medium to long, strong stems. The whole bush is clothed in large dark green foliage, borne in ample quantities from the tip to the base of the plant.

First Prize should be a popular garden rose as the flowers have enough substance to give them a long decorative life, whether as a cut flower or on the bush.

Some judges expect First Prize to be an outstanding show rose capable of helping National Rose Show exhibitors win the famous "Earl of Warwick" Urn, always considered one of the top show prizes.

Petunias—Brilliant in the Sun

El Toro is a remarkably red petunia. It is one of four new varieties of this annual which is being introduced by Pan-American Seed Co.

El Toro is attractive in any way you use petunias.

It is a single grandiflora, big and stalwart.

Two other newcomers in the grandiflora class are colored pink. They are called Flamboyant and Pink Snow.

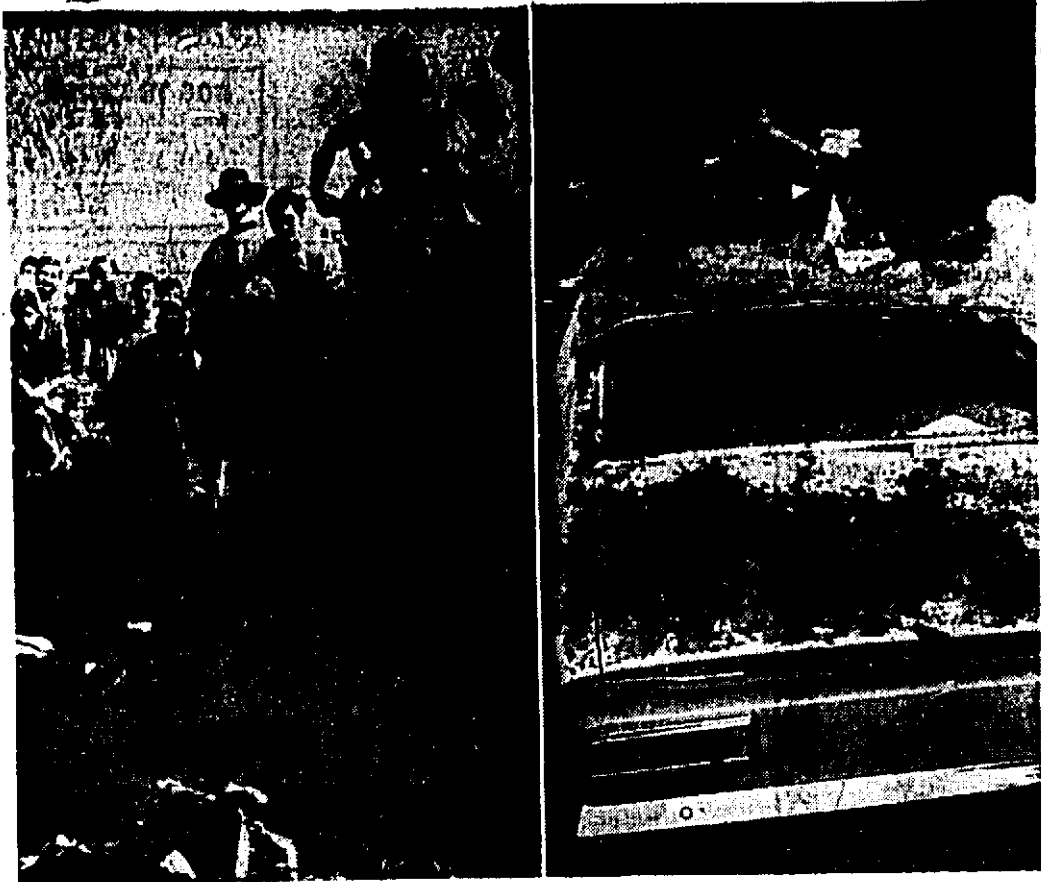

Flamboyant is best described as flamingo-pink, an unusual radiant hue that is emphasized by the flower's creamy-white throat. The flowers themselves are 2 1/2 inches or larger, and are borne on well-shaped, rounded pedicels.

Pink Sno captures the full but delicate tints of pink in its large (3 to 3 1/2-inch) blooms. It is, in fact, a soft pleasant pink that will blend harmoniously with almost any garden color. It, too, has a well-mounded habit.

And finally, there is Coral Bells, the new season's contribution to the increasingly popular, single multiflora "Bill" group of petunias. The flower is a bright coral with white throat, and is produced in abundance on thrifty, compact plants throughout the summer. Like others in this group, Coral Bells' inbred weather tolerance makes it ideal for mass planting.

DEMONSTRATORS BURY NEW CAR 10-FEET AT SAN JOSE 'SURVIVAL FAIRE'

HUMANITIES CLASS EVENT

Clean Air Lovers Bury Car

SAN JOSE (AP) — Demonstrators for pure air buried a brand new automobile 10-feet deep on the San Jose State College campus Friday, but dissident Negro students stalled the ceremonies until promised money for "oppressed blacks."

The raucous scene was the climax of a week-long "Survival Faire" put on by Prof. John G. Sperling's humanities class.

Bands blared, thousands of onlookers yelled, shovels flashed and blacks and Mexican-Americans made protest speeches.

THE FAIR included a pollution room, so smog-filled that gas masks were needed, a tin can "statue of liberty," and similar exhibits.

The students chipped in $2.50 to buy a sacrificial car.

Gov. Ronald Reagan called it a silly idea and suggested a raffle to benefit an antismog group.

Mark Tigan, fair co-chairman said, "We want to shake up Detroit. An old car wouldn't make such an impact."

Black Students Union members climbed on the hood of the car when the parade began and brandished signs such as "Don't bury the car, bury the system."

Mike Torrance, a BSU spokesman, said, "We are opposed to the waste of $2,500 when our people are starving." He demanded the equivalent in money for "the oppressed blacks and browns of the community."

Mexican-Americans chimed in with similar demands.

THE CAR was eventually allowed to be pushed off the campus by some 10 students. The San Jose State Spartan Band blasted out with a lively march, and the procession started to downtown San Jose.

With teams of 10 students relieving each other pushing the car, the band and several thousand marchers went 20 blocks through town. The crowd ranged from 1,500 to 10,000, depending on who did the estimating.

Two Negro protesters rode the hood. Their weight dented it somewhat.

At last the parade, pushers and marchers, arrived at the burial site — a hole next to the campus cafeteria. A friendly contractor with a power shovel had pre-dug the hole.

THE CAR was filled with sand and an alarm buzzer was placed inside, just in case some sneak might try to dig it up later.

The professor then announced he had arranged with a class to provide funds for the black students' purposes.

Eager onlookers rolled the car into the pit and heaped it with funeral wreaths.

Two men in clergy dress, identifying themselves merely as from "the campus area," delivered brief eulogies.

Schrade Asks Ethics Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Leader Jack Schrade, contending he has been "defamed," Friday asked the legislative ethics committee to investigate his acceptance of a $5,000 campaign contribution from a lobbyist group.

The six members of the Ethics Committee indicated they would fulfill his request.

One member said more money and other lawmakers may be involved.

Another member, Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, said perhaps the law should be changed to allow campaign contributions only during the year a politician runs for office. Schrade's contribution came three years before his next election.

Schrade, R-San Diego, said he was asking for the investigation because, "I feel my name has been defamed."

The chairman of the Ethics Committee, Assemblyman Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, said the formal investigation request had not yet been filed. He said when it was he would decide whether to initiate a probe.

Assembly Democratic leader Jess Unruh Friday night said it was "foolish and improper" for Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, to have accepted a $5,000 campaign contribution more than three years before he was due to run for re-election.

COMMITTEE Vice Chairman Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, said a statute of limitations may be a stumbling block in an investigation of past alleged ethical misconduct.

He also said he has heard reports that other lawmakers and an estimated $28,000 in all is involved, but hastily added, "I have no facts on it."

Bradley said, however, this aspect "should be included in any investigation" along with the special interest group that paid the money.

Schrade received $5,000 campaign fund. He does from the California Association of Thrift and Loan Companies in 1969. He says he deposited it in his not run for re-election again until 1972.

The money was paid to Schrade when he was vice chairman of a key committee hearing a multi-million-dollar bill backed by the association. He voted for it in committee and on the floor, where it was defeated.

The 16-year legislative veteran says there was no connection between his vote and payment of the money.

RANCHO GETS NEW MEDICAL DIRECTOR

Dr. Harold Mazur has been appointed medical director of Rancho Los Amigos Hospital, Downey. It was announced Friday by Eugene R. Erickson, hospital administrator.

Dr. Mazur, who is associate dean of the University of Southern California school of medicine, will continue in that post also, Erickson disclosed.

Dr. Mazur succeeds Dr. Vernon L. Nickel, who will remain at Rancho Los Amigos as chief of surgical services.

The changeover is effective March 1.

Dr. Nickel is also a clinical professor of orthopedic surgery at USC.

Erickson praised Dr. Nickel's services as medical director, saying that since Dr. Nickel assumed that post in 1964, Rancho has received international recognition for its patient-care programs.

Rancho Los Amigos is a county-operated hospital specializing in rehabilitation of persons with chronic or long-term disabilities.

HOSPITAL GETS COST-CUTTER

Faster Blood Analysis

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

New automatic laboratory equipment that can speed findings, cut costs, reduce error and even shorten hospital stays has been purchased by Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.

The equipment, which analyzes blood, is known as the Model S Coulter Counter and is slated to be put into full-scale operation April 1.

A spokesman for the hospital said the device can:

—Speed results of blood tests to physicians an hour or two faster than is possible at present.

—Shorten the hospital stays of some anemic patients by a day or two.

—Lower charges for some patients by as much as $10.

—Increase safeguards against error.

—Free two medical technologists for other duties.

Dr. Jim Baker, pathologist, said the counter will provide added information "in the form of data on the size and blood-pigment content of red blood cells, not previously available on a routine basis."

"It will enable a physician to move rapidly and more accurately decide on the cause of an anemia," he added.

The new instrumentation will be able to analyze about 150 blood tests a day.

The Model S performs in 20 seconds what would normally require 10 to 15 minutes of technologists time. As a consequence, test results can be in the physician's hands up to two hours faster since backlogs will not build up in the laboratory.

Two technologists can now be transferred to other work, a move that will save the laboratory about $20,000 a year in pay and benefits.

Study Challenges Diabetes Beliefs

A new medical study indicates that a high blood-sugar level denotes a diabetic state regardless of a person's age, a Long Beach doctor reported at a medical meeting Friday.

Dr. Michael J. Perley, a Long Beach endocrinologist, reported to a meeting of the American College of Physicians in Coronado that age has little effect in insulin secretion patterns.

Dr. Perley, a member of the teaching staff at St. Mary's Hospital in Long Beach, noted that some medical observers have thought there may be a big difference in insulin secretion as persons grow older.

But Dr. Perley's study, which involved several hundred persons, indicates that the pancreas, the gland that secretes insulin, "doesn't wear out" as one grows older.

Dr. Perley formerly was head of endocrinology at the famed Lovelace Foundation in Albuquerque, N.M. His study was begun there and continued in Southern California under a grant from the National Institutes of Health, the research arm of the U.S. Public Health Service.

L.B. City OKs Health Agreement

Renewal of the annual contract under which the Long Beach Health Department provides certain basic health services which normally would be provided by the county has been approved by the City Council.

County reimbursement to the city for fiscal 1970-71 will total $1,137,403, an increase of $158,461, or 16 per cent, over the current fiscal year, according to City Manager John R. Mansell.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors this week also approved the renewed agreement and the negotiated total reimbursement.

Mansell told councilmen that the city will incur "additional costs" with annexation of Carmelitos Housing Project, but added that county officials have agreed to credit the city for expenditures to Carmelitos residents.

Subsequent to the Carmelitos annexation, however, the city will ask that the 1970-71 county reimbursement be amended to provide the added funds to compensate for health services to Carmelitos, Mansell said.

Not so many years ago a little hill stood between Wilmington and San Pedro.

Its gullied slopes grew willow thickets and prickly cactus and sunflowers and pungent, sticky brush.

For most of the year a trickle of water came down one of the gullies. The water dripped and oozed into the West Basin of Los Angeles Harbor near Capt. Bill Donoghue's towboat base.

And all of the untrampled hillside and all its gullies, especially the wet one, abounded in little native creatures.

QUAIL WHISTLED on the dry hillside, and doves sang their mournful song at each other from the willows. Cottontail, brush rabbits and the long-eared jackrabbits loped along a thousand trails. In the cooler spots lived skunks and weasels and raccoons.

Then came men digging earth for harbor fills and highways. Project after project chewed chunks of the hill away forever. Area after area was leveled and paved.

Three years ago the diggers scraped away the last of the willow trees, which grew along the little creek.

The quail already had left; with the willows, the doves left. It had been a long time since anyone had seen a weasel slinking along Wilmington-San Pedro Road, which half-circled the hill.

When the diggers opened up the gulley which had the creek in it, the last family of raccoons vanished. Cottontail and brush rabbits were hunted down by men with whippets, or by bow-and-arrow marksmen.

ONLY A FEW JACKRABBITS — they are nomads, no home, no nest, real travelers — stuck around to scratch a living out of what was left of the dry hillside and its last remaining patch of brush.

A day or two ago, the present big earth-digging job on the hill moved suddenly 100 yards farther west.

Huge bulldozers charged into the thicket. Their engines beat a pulse in the air; their treads shook the ground.

The last tenants of the hillside brush scrambled for their lives. Jackrabbits aren't very brave, anyhow. The last one anybody saw went racing past the Harbor Division police station, bounding over bushes, skulking across open spots, to disappear over the crest of the hill. And what's over there?

Poverty Action Group Combines Brainpower

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

A key facet of the Long Beach "poverty war" has a new look today.

The Community Action Program has put its five community organizers into a single, compact "team" which has a potential for bringing five times as much brainpower and organizational skill to bear on any given problem. Formerly, each of the five functioned individually, sometimes duplicating efforts in different areas of Long Beach.

The five — Henry Goodo, Jim Farris, Mrs. Neil Casey, Rudolfo Parra and Mrs. Anne Finley — have selected their first target area, according to Mrs. Frances Bond, of the parent CAP agency. It will be, she said, development of working facilities for the Downtown Neighborhood Council.

THE SHIFT to a "team" approach for the developers has brought enthusiastic reaction from the five organizers.

"We feel that we're going to be able to deliver many more successes with this arrangement," said Mrs. Finley.

"We want to get all the councils to stand on their own feet," added Mrs. Casey. "With this arrangement, we think we can provide the self-starter impetus for the councils."

Goodo said the plan would enable the Long Beach CAP to "meet Nixon's ideology of self-help."

The use of the five in "team" efforts will also allow some of the organizers to work into the evening and night hours, meeting the needs of people who have daytime jobs.

Parra's inclusion in the "team" effort gives the unit a capability for reaching Mexican-Americans and Cubans who can't speak English who might otherwise be slighted.

"What's important in that regard," said Parra, a lawyer in his native Cuba, "is not that 80 per cent of the Latin-American citizens of this area speak English, but that 20 per cent do not. We have to make some effort to reach them."

Farris, rounding out the group, gives the "team" a youthful outlook and perhaps an opportunity for inroads on the teens and post-teens who have been traditionally difficult to reach.

THE ORGANIZERS were converted to the "team" concept in mid-February but are now beginning to function together.

"We are targeting the downtown council," said Goodo, "but we'll be flexible enough to move into other councils where specific needs arise."

Mrs. Finley said the concept seemed certain to produce greater results than the single organizer plan had delivered in the past.

"A victory for any center — whether it's a child care facility or a tutoring situation — will logically stimulate new efforts for achievement," she said.

THIS IS WINTER ATTIRE?

It is for Debbie Goodwin, a Laguna Beach High School senior, who has been named that city's Miss Winter Festival. Pert Debbie will be official freindliness spreader during event, which began Friday and ends March 1. Included in festival are a ballet, rodeo, barbecue and other events.

Remainder of L.A. River Should Be Lined -- Mansell

Extension of the concrete lining of Los Angeles River down to its mouth has a "high priority" among Long Beach flood control projects, according to City Manager John R. Mansell.

He was commenting this week on a communication from the Los Angeles County Division, League of California Cities, relative to the proposed new county flood control bond issue.

In response to an inquiry from Councilman Paul R. Deats, Mansell said he believes the bond issue is necessary, and said there are "one or two areas" in Long Beach that still need to be taken care of.

The manager said he would bring to the council a list of flood control items which would be of benefit to the city.

At present, the cement lining of Los Angeles River ends at approximately Willow Street. Last January and February, heavy storms extensively eroded the river bottom near its mouth, and remedial work has been under way for several months.

Cranston Told School Lunches Face Deficit

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., had oven browned fish sticks with some poor kids in the Compton Elementary School District Friday to inspect a booming school lunch program that may run out of money for the last two months of the school year.

School nurses, teachers and principals gave Cranston their appraisal of the program in both statistics and unbridled personal praise. The senator is a member of the subcommittee charged with allocations of federal assistance for the program.

CRANSTON'S LUNCH AT THE Jefferson Elementary School consisted of the fish sticks, carrot and cabbage salad, potato chips, peanut butter sandwich, fruit jello and milk. Kids paid 15 cents, with 20 cents of the check picked up by federal assistance. Poorer children got the meal free. Use of a meal ticket system protects the identity of those getting free meals.

Leonard C. Erickson, district superintendent, told Cranston six of the district's 20 schools have the 15-cent lunch. Since it went into effect, student participation jumped from 31 per cent to 85 per cent.

A school nurse, Mrs. Hazel Reuter, said the hot, 15-cent meal is often the only hot meal children in this district receive in a day. She said it has sharply reduced afternoon absenteeism among hungry children who didn't bother coming back to school after finding a bare cupboard at home on lunch hours.

TEACHERS SAID CHILDREN show improvement in interest, attention, response, concentration and general health. One young boy who stole lunch sacks and small change has broken the habit and the need for it since the lunch program was started.

Compton, federal entitlement for the September, 1969 to June 1970, period is $73,962 of the $6.9 million allotted for the entire state. The district expects a $15,000 deficit.

Superintendent Erickson said 24 per cent of the community is at poverty level; 4,022 of the 17,226 enrolled students are on Aid to Families with Dependent Children and "the total community income is at subsistence level." Enrollment is 74 per cent Negro.

Mrs. Rachel W. Working, supervisor of food services for the East Whittier City School District, told Sen. Cranston that a necessary boost in that district's school lunch from 10 to 45 cents has meant that "many children from middle income families can no longer afford to participate five days a week, with average participation limited to one or two days a week."

STATE TO PAY PART 82 Port Projects Await Negotiations on Subsidence

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Harbor officials were urged Friday by City Auditor Murray T. Courson to "intensify their efforts" to negotiate a final settlement with the state for reimbursement of subsidence costs.

Courson said in the department's annual audit that there are 82 completed capital projects, involving expenditure of about $37 million, which await final determination of their subsidence percentage.

On many capital improvements projects in the harbor, a portion of the work is made necessary to correct subsidence. The cost of such subsidence remedial work is reimbursed to the port from state revenue from tideland oil production.

The percentage of the cost of a given project which involves subsidence remedial work is determined by negotiations between harbor and state officials.

Courson said that there are projects valued at about $2 million on which no subsidence percentage has been assigned, most of which have been completed for "at least 10 years."

The annual audit revealed that gross income from port operations during the 1968-69 fiscal year was $9,944,303, an increase of $1,361,245, or 15.9 per cent.

Expenses for the year totaled $6,486,877, an increase of $393,686, or 10.2 per cent.

Garage Burgled

Two bicycles and a power lawnmower, valued at $240, were taken from the garage of Mounlie Bedford, 3934 Gardenia Ave., by burglars who entered through an unlocked door, Long Beach police said Friday.

L.B. Firm Is Fined By PUC

From Our L.A. Bureau

A Long Beach firm will have to pay a $1,500 fine to the state Public Utilities Commission for failing to prepare proper shipping bills while hauling gasoline and diesel fuel.

The PUC fined V.B. Morgan Co. of 6106 Paramount Blvd. for this and several lesser violations. The latter includes straying from established traffic rates and other commission rules.

PUC officials said the shipping bills were inadequately documented in making deliveries to Humble Oil and Refining Company during four months in 1968.

$1,500 Home Loot

Daniel Schwartz, of 1723 E. 3rd St., told Long Beach police Friday that burglars broke into his home and removed camera equipment, a tape recorder and clothing valued at $1,500.

City Renews Navy Contract

The contract under which the City of Long Beach provides police, fire and refuse collection services to three U.S. Navy housing projects here has been renewed by the City Council for the current fiscal year.

The Navy will reimburse the city in the amount of $66,459 for providing such services to Lexington and Savannah housing projects, and to the Family Public Quarters housing at the Cabrillo site.

'OLD WAYS ARE IRRELEVANT' SAYS SHIRLEY MAC LAINE

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Actress Shirley MacLaine has testified the current trend in moviemaking is just another expression of the widespread challenge to existing institutions.

"What's happening to films is the same as what's happening to politics," she told Congress. "It's difference between the old and the new approach to life. The old ways are irrelevant."

MISS MacLAINE was one of several witnesses who appeared before a House Education subcommittee to encourage federal financial support for the arts and humanities.

Another witness, George

SHIRLEY MacLAINE... 'Challenge of Times'

Stevens Jr., director of the American Film Institute, also defended the growing freedom of expression in movies but conceded it was being exploited by some people.

"I hope that the 'skin flicks' will prove to be a passing fancy," he said. "But the growing up of the movies in terms of content is a generally healthy development."

Miss MacLaine, a fur hat perched on her red hair, engaged in a lively discussion with the congressmen after reading a brief statement. She said despite an over-indulgence in sex by some moviemakers, current films are an accurate reflection of the search by modern man for deeper values and a clearer answer to the human condition.

"We're going through difficult times," she said. "We can't conquer unless we face our condition and film is one way to face it."

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

"This is the craziest program yet," grumbled the lady behind me, Thursday night in the Pavilion of The Music Center.

She was referring to Zubin Mehta's juxtaposition of works by Mozart, Berg, Elms, and Mozart, in that order: the eight-year old composer's charming First Symphony; three excerpts from "Wozzeck," the first performance anywhere of "Hexameron," and the D minor Piano Concerto, K. 456.

I MUST disagree with the lady. In this, the Los Angeles Philharmonic's 51st season, we have had stranger programs than this one; in fact, the reasoning behind Mehta's musical menu, which will be served, again, Sunday afternoon, is not hard to guess.

Mozart's music, even granting how many worlds separate the juvenile Symphony and the mature Concerto, is the ideal choice for concert-openers and-closers. It is great; it is universally beloved; and it makes everybody, including performers and their most serious listeners, happy.

And another thing: with Mozart first and last on a program, late arrivals and early departers are held to a minimum. And whatever fare is offered at midpoint, that fare is guaranteed a captive audience.

Berg's "Wozzeck" (1921) needs no help at this point, of course, and the excerpts played by the Philharmonic, assisted by soprano Carol Todd, if less than highly polished, provided appropriate contrasts with the two 18th-century pieces (Miss Todd, who began her career in Long Beach, will be soloist in these excerpts when the orchestra plays them in Municipal Auditorium next Friday).

Gottfried von Einem's amazingly conservative "Hexameron" (1969), a commission by the Southern California Symphony-Hollywood Bowl Association for Mehta and the Philharmonic, turns out to be, sorry to say, one of those disappointing new works which fail to justify the circumstances of their creation.

THIS WEEK'S program notes by Hans Moldenauer were optimistic, saying that Einem's "artistic aspiration is the amalgamation of the sensuous world of a Richard Strauss with the structural discipline and rhythmic vigor of an Igor Stravinsky," but, in the ear, and for all of some 28 minutes, the aspiration remains unrealized. "Hexameron" is so unimaginatively tonal it actually sounds like MacDowell. It is not even as interesting as Gunther Schuller's "Paul Klee" suite, which ought to give you an idea of its relative seriousness.

Modern Landing Ship Tank (LST) USS Peoria is shown on trial run prior to her commissioning at 11 a.m. today at Pier E. Displacing 8,000 tons, the 522-foot-long vessel can speed through water at 25 knots. Special bow-section ramp replaces more conventional gate-type doors. The ship has a crew of 200 men and can carry a 450-man Marine landing party for beach assaults. The Peoria will be based at San Diego following this morning's ceremonies, to which the public is invited.

NEWPORT BEACH STUDY

Indian Artifacts on Target

A group of archeologists and students will travel to Promontory Point in Newport Beach Sunday to collect surface artifacts left by the Gavrieline Indians.

Dr. Margaret L. Weide, of the California State College at Long Beach anthropology department, said Friday that she and other faculty members, students and members of the Pacific Coast Archeological Society are involved in the project.

THE IRVINE CO., which will begin developing Promontory Point in about two months, gave permission to CSLB and the PCAS to engage in the project, Dr. Weide said.

Promontory Point is near Jamboree Road and Coast Highway.

"There's probably not much depth to the site, so we won't be digging," she said. "But there is a large quantity of chipping waste (rock matter left from tool manufacturing) at the site which we hope to find and have our students analyze."

The artifact hunt will begin at about 9:30 a.m., said Dr. Weide.

"WE'VE DISTRIBUTED maps to the site," she said. "I expect people to be 'dribbling' through all day. If they all come in the morning, we may get too crowded."

"I believe the site has been pretty well worked over (in the past), but I think we'll come up with some interesting artifacts."

Dr. Weide said there is no current arrangement between CSLB and the Irvine Co. for the firm to turn over to the college any archeological artifacts uncovered during clearing of the site. Such artifacts probably will be given to the PCAS, she said.

Beach Route Hearing Denied by State Unit

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The California Highway Commission Thursday rejected a request by the City of Newport Beach that route hearings be reopened for the planned coastal freeway through the city.

The decision was reached during the commission's regular monthly meeting, in El Centro.

Commission members listened to an hour and 40 minutes of testimony from Newport Beach city officials, urging that the route which has been adopted be abandoned in favor of a more inland route which they said would be less disruptive, and from opponents of the idea who expressed the fear that further studies would delay construction.

The freeway is expected to reach the area in the 1975-76 fiscal year.

The Newport Beach plea was rejected when no commission member moved to reopen the route studies following the hearing.

STORM DRAIN BIDS DUE

From Our L. A. Bureau

Contractors' bids will be opened March 20 for construction of a half-mile storm drain in San Pedro with a cost estimate of $440,000.

County supervisors approved the plans Tuesday. The project will be built from Paseo Del Mar at Barbara Street and run to a point near Weymouth Avenue where it will curve through rights of way to an ocean outlet.

Hospital Parking Worries Planners

To try to iron out potential parking and traffic problems the Planning Commission has voted to continue until March 6 a hearing on a proposed convalescent hospital at 4019 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

An application filed by Doctors' Convalescent Hospital of Long Beach seeks a special permit to erect a six-story hospital on the north side of Pacific Coast Highway, east of the proposed extension of Terminal Avenue.

The plans call for a 279-bed facility, with some shops on the main floor.

Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. said his department believes the proposed shops to be "very undesirable" because they are isolated from any shopping area and because of restricted parking along Pacific Coast Highway.

Norman Foerstel, one of the owners of the proposed hospital said the shops are designed only for patients. The only access to the shops is from within the building, and they would not be open to the public.

Residents of Mendez Street, which lies behind the proposed hospital and from which access to the parking areas would come, submitted a petition of opposition.

MAN OF YEAR

Honored by Alliance, Neb., Chamber of Commerce as "Man of the Year" for 1969 was Don Gill, a 1947 graduate of Wilson High of Long Beach. Gill, whose brother is a motorcycle officer with Long Beach police, is manager of Alliance radio station KCOW.

Planners Change Meeting Date for Zoning Matters

The next regular meeting of the Planning Commission to hear zoning matters will be held Friday, March 6, at 9 a.m.

The meeting normally would be held on Thursday, March 5, but this is the day of the annual Chamber of Commerce Congress for Community Progress.

Inasmuch as Director of Planning Ernest Mayer Jr. is a participant in the congress, and commission members attend as part of their official duties, the commission meeting was changed to avoid conflict.

The change in meeting day will apply only to the first regular meeting in March. Subsequent meetings will be on the first and third Thursdays of the month, as is customary.

War on Pollution Seen as duty of Christians

By MARK CLUTTER

The reason for the new by-line is Les Rodney is on a tour of Israel. He will be back next week, God and the Arabs willing. He should be able to tell the readers many interesting things about this dynamic land, at once so very young and very old.

CHURCH leaders are awakening to the fact that pollution of air, land and water is a moral problem fraught with the gravest consequence.

The Crusader, the American Baptist Newsmagazine, speaks earnestly on the subject. We quote in part from an editorial:

"Water, cool, clean water . . .

"Sip that glass of cold water slowly. Savor each drop of it. The day may well come when drinkable water will be a very scarce item.

"In 1955, 75 million pounds of edible fish were taken from Lake Erie. Today scarcely any healthy fish can be found in it. One third of the 100,000 lakes in the U.S. are in danger.

"Last year man threw 143 million tons of pollutants into the skies. Chicago, for example, loses 40 per cent of its natural sunlight because of the unhealthy haze of air pollution and when the phenomenon known as inversion takes place (trapping polluted air close to the surface of the earth) death tolls run high.

"Man is producing wastes faster than the natural order can recycle them. There was a time when a running river could purify itself. Now man's load of garbage is too burdensome.

"Man's filthiness has already caused the extinction of more than 300 species of animals.

"A tragic aspect of the whole problem is that it is not you and I who will suffer. According to Dr. Rene Dubos, professor of environmental biomedicine at Rockefeller University at the 22nd meeting of the World Health Assembly: "It is the children who are born today, who will show the effects of the massive and general pollution of environment.

"We hope it is not too late.

NEWS OF RELIGION

"Man has a moral responsibility to keep the earth clean. He was placed on the planet to replenish it and rule over it . . . not to destroy it! And when by our filthiness we destroy life, and jeopardize the existence of the next generation, God will hold us accountable.

"As Christians we must lead the way in helping to clean up God's good earth."

CONTROVERSY raged and is still raging over the "Black Manifesto" in which militant Negroes demanded that churches give money as "reparations" for slavery. Actually that wasn't quite what was meant, but the language was excessive.

Some denominations in stormy sessions agreed to help. So far, about $200,000 has been turned over to the Black Economic Development Conference.

"We are spending the money very frugally and carefully," said the Rev. Dr. Calvin B. Marshall, a Brooklyn pastor and president of B.E.C.D. He said the initial effort is concentrated upon establishing a

POLLUTION WAR

Negro publishing company, the Black Star Press.

THE ROMAN Catholics in America will now use a language "understanded" by the people. John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, has announced that the Holy See has confirmed the English translation of the Mass and other revised liturgical services. Publishers will quickly issue official texts for insertion into altar books. March 22, 1970, has been set for the first date for use. All dioceses must "Lots of people are now beginning to realize that we didn't come into being to blow up the United States," he commented wryly.

Most of the money — $177,533 — came from Episcopalians as individual gifts. Aid to B.E.C.D. does not involve any church money. There was extremely earnest controversy over the issue.

"WHO MAY live and who shall die?"

This question was at the heart of a conference of 35 Presbyterian and Jewish theologians and academicians at Princeton, N.J., recently.

Their primary concern was the need to study the thrust of scientific research, and to persuade those engaged in that research to stay within the limits of Western value systems. They foresaw a total invasion of privacy through the use of such mechanisms as data banks and technological spying devices. They expressed fear that modern science could destroy the dignity and individuality of man.

"How is it possible to teach the sanctity of life and the sacredness of the individual in a world that is becoming more and more subject to control, balance and order?" asked Lionel Rubinoff, professor of social science and philosophy at York University, Toronto, Canada.

"I HAD to sit down where they sat."

The prophet Ezekiel was quoted in a recent sermon by the Rev. Arthur F. Suetz in Lakewood First Presbyterian Church as giving one way in which individuals can meet the heavy problems facing modern society.

"Think how that insight might affect so many relationships in life," Suetz said. "Just let your imagination go. Suppose management and labor could sit where the other sits. Or can you imagine how the world looks through the windows of pain? How does the world look to a man who lies in bed and knows he is never going to get out of that bed?"

"As I get older, can I remember how the world looks to a young person? That intoxication with life? And those of you younger than I am, can you imagine how much of your parents' happiness you hold in your hands?"

"Can you imagine how the world looked to young Tom Skinner when he awoke in the middle of the night in Harlem to the sound of a piercing scream as a mother across the hall discovered her two-week-old baby gnawed to death by a large rat? And to know in the back of your mind that happens 41 times a week in Harlem?"

"Sometimes I wonder if every policeman and every judge shouldn't go to jail for a week, just to get the feel of it. To sit where they sit. If every doctor oughtn't to be sick for a week or two."

YOU CAN'T tell the "fuzz" by a uniform.

The Rev. Melvin Floyd, a 34-year-old pastor who is also a policeman in Philadelphia, says "I never have problems relating to the kids because I am a policeman. The kids in the street respond to love and the individual rather than what the individual represents."

Floyd, a Negro, should know because he was one of the street kids himself. He was put on probation for gang fighting. So he went to work at various jobs, finished high school and the Philadelphia School of Bible, joined the force and became assistant pastor of Faith Fellowship Baptist Church. He helps run Teen Haven, a neighborhood youth center. Recently he was honored by the National Jaycees as one of the ten "Outstanding Young Men in America."

PROTEST has many styles. In Trearlaw, Wales, Henry Edwards, a 59-year-old writer, is eating only oat porridge during Lent. "I hope to gain converts for the Latin Mass Society," he said. He opposes the introduction of the Mass in English in Roman Catholic Churches.

STANDARDIZED modern versions of certain prayers which have been used for centuries with variations have been prepared by the International Consultation on English Texts, London. The new versions were prepared jointly by Lutheran, Methodist, Anglican, Roman Catholic, Congregationalist and Baptist experts from 20 countries.

Baptist Bible Fellowship to Convene in Bellflower

The Midwinter Conference of the Baptist Bible Fellowship International will launch a year-long celebration of its 20th anniversary at Bellflower's Calvary Baptist Church Monday at 7:30 p.m. The conference will continue through Thursday evening.

More than 1,000 will attend.

Dr. James O. Combs, public relations director for the Fellowship, explained the history and purposes of the group:

"I was one of the original 37 pastors and 100 laymen who formed this group in 1950 as an alternative to affiliation with any other highly organized convention or association.

"Our remarkable growth, only recently noticed by the religious world, is an interesting indication that 'the old time religion' is far from dead but has a fresh appeal.

"While many are uttering sad jeremiads on the demise of the church and the decline of Christianity, our movement is growing by leaps and bounds. We attribute this to an emphasis on Biblical Christianity and an avoidance of liberal, ecumenical, and other close alliances with groups whose main thrust is to deal with social issues rather than meeting the basic spiritual and psychological needs of individuals. We are attempting to reach millions of individuals on a person to person level with the claims of Christ."

The movement, founded in Fort Worth, Tex., in 1950, now has over a million affiliated members, plus many hundreds of thousands of children enrolled in Sunday Schools who are not yet baptized members. Eighty-six per cent of the 2,130 churches have been founded and built from the ground up since 1950. The movement operates the Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Mo. with an enrollment now of over 1,500 ministerial, missionary, and Christian education students. It was founded in 1950. The first graduating class in 1951 numbered 13.

Six of the ten largest Sunday Schools in America are associated with the Fellowship, according to Christian Life Magazine which made a national survey in 1963, calling the "newly emerging Baptist Bible Fellowship" the "fastest growing denomination in the United States."

On Sunday, prior to the opening of the four-day conclave, Dr. G. Beauchamp Vick, pastor of the 20,000-member Temple Baptist Church in Detroit, Mich., and president of the Baptist Bible College, will speak at the Calvary Baptist Church. On Monday evening Dr. W. E. Dowell, executive vice president of the Baptist Bible College, will deliver the keynote address. Charles F. Billington of the world's largest Baptist Church, the Akron Baptist Temple of Akron, Ohio, will be the speaker. Editor Noel Smith of the weekly Baptist Bible Tribune, published in Springfield and owned by the Fellowship, will be the featured personality. There will be day sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday with both speakers and business matters discussed.

Among the featured speakers will be Dr. David Cavin, Springfield, Mo.; Rev. Bob Hughes, missionary to Philippines; and Dr. A. V. Henderson, missionaries from Japan, South America, and other fields will be speaking, and new missionaries will be approved for the mission field.

Services will officially begin with the Monday night service at 7:30. Tuesday's services are scheduled beginning at 9:30 and continuing throughout the day and evening. Wednesday morning's services begin with a continental breakfast for the preaching in the church dining room. Simultaneous with this meeting, the ladies will have a breakfast at

Clifton's Cafeteria in Lakewood Shopping Center, and Mrs. Minerva Matter, widow of the Keeper of the Tomb where

DR. G. B. VICK

Jesus was buried in Jerusalem, will be the featured speaker. Services following these breakfasts will begin in the church auditorium at 10 a.m. and continue through noon. No afternoon services are scheduled for Wednesday or Thursday, but special sightseeing excursions will be conducted to points of interest locally.

The Fellowship has pastors and missionaries in 30 countries, besides the United States, many of whom are coming to the meeting.

Outspokenly "fundamental" in doctrine, the movement adheres strongly to a Bible-centric and Christocentric emphasis. Most of the affiliated churches major on chapter by chapter Bible study and a strong evangelistic thrust.

The Calvary Baptist Church is located in Bellflower on Clark Street just south of Rosecrans Avenue. Dr. H. Frank Collins is the host pastor.

Was Washington a Christian? Well...

By LOUIS CASSELS
 UPI Religion Writer

Like the people of other countries, Americans tend to outfit their historical heroes with halos they would have found ill-fitting in real life.

George Washington is a conspicuous victim of this unfortunate disposition to turn complex human beings into cardboard saints.

American folklore depicts Washington as a paragon of Christian piety. One of the nation's favorite images of its first president is a painting inspired by the mendacious Parson Weems, which shows Washington devoutly kneeling in the snow to pray at Valley Forge.

If Washington knelt in the snow at Valley Forge, it was the only time in his life he ever saw fit to assume that posture for prayer. Although he was a lifelong member of the Episcopal Church, in which it is customary for worshippers to kneel for prayer, Washington strongly disapproved of the practice and steadfastly refused to go along with it. Sometimes this made him pretty conspicuous, but Washington was never a craven conformist.

He also made no bones about his disinterest in Holy Communion, a central sacrament of Episcopal worship. It was his habit to leave church services as soon as the sermon was over.

This habit finally brought him into a public confrontation with a clergyman not unlike the one Lyndon B. Johnson had with that Episcopal rector at Williamsburg, Va.

The story is told by Edmund Fuller and David E. Green in their book, "God in the White House" (Crown).

During part of Washington's presidency, the seat of government was located in Philadelphia. When Washington went to church — by no means an everyday affair — he usually attended St. Peter's Episcopal Church, where the Rev. Dr. James Abercrombie was rector.

Abercrombie became so incensed about Washington's habit of slipping out before Communion that he looked the president square in the eye one Sunday and preached a sermon deploring the bad example of "those in elevated stations who uniformly turn their backs on the Lord's Supper."

"Washington was irked, but behaved with punctilious correctness," the historians report. "He said it had never occurred to him, but conceded the point and promised not to repeat the offense. He didn't. Thereafter he never appeared at St. Peter's on a Communion Sunday."

Although Washington was baptized, married and buried by the Episcopal Church and served for many years as a vestryman, there is grave doubt that he subscribed to all or even most of the theological doctrines of that church. Indeed, it is open to question whether he can be considered a Christian at all, in any conventional sense of the word.

Dr. Abercrombie, admittedly a biased witness, always contended that Washington was a deist, like Thomas Jefferson and Tom Paine. And some of Washington's public statements lend credence to this description.

Deism, which was very widespread among educated Americans of the Revolutionary War period, was a philosophy that acknowledged God as creator and ruler of the universe, but conceived of Him as staying aloof, not communicating with man, and having no interest in human religious rites. Deists generally admired Jesus (as Jefferson and Paine did), but did not think of him as the divine Son of God.

Unlike Jefferson and Paine, both of whom were voluble about their religious views, Washington rarely discussed his beliefs, even in private conversation around his own dinner table. The only clue to his leanings is found in the abstract and impersonal terms (such as "Providence" or "The Creator") which he customarily used in alluding to the Deity in public addresses.

Whatever the specific content of Washington's private creed, he regarded religion as a mainstay of human civilization. In his Farewell Address, he said: "Let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion... reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle."

FROM THE PULPIT
 The Mid-Winter Bible Conference of the Baptist Bible Fellowship convenes here at Calvary this week. Seven of the ten largest Sunday Schools in the nation belong to this group. Dedicated to the task of evangelizing the world with the Gospel of Christ, this group of some 2,000 churches is perhaps the most aggressive group of fundamental churches in our nation. (A.N.C.) I use the word "fundamental" with pride. Personally, I believe liberalism and modernism in the theological world to be the subtle work of Satan. Come and hear these men speak who have built the largest Baptist Churches in America. The meetings are all open to the public. Hear such men as Dr. Noel Smith, Dr. G. B. Vick, Dr. Bill Dowell, Dr. Charles Billington and others. And, if you do not know what good old-fashioned Gospel preaching is, come and find out — it will bless your heart.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Drain Pollution From Your Mind

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

There's a lake named Apopka in Florida. Twenty-five years ago it was advertised as one of the greatest lakes for bass fishing in the world. Then it began to have pollution problems. The waste from industry, residue from fertilizers and from the many processing plants nearby began to destroy Lake Apopka.

The lake is over 50 square miles in size and its places reaches a depth of 120 feet. Because of the pollution, only such hardy fish as the gar can live in it. That great fishing area seemed to be permanently destroyed.

Finally, the experts concluded there was only one way to save this beautiful lake. That was to build a series of dams and canals and to completely empty Lake Apopka. They decided to let all the water which had become so full of pollution, drain off into the ocean and then let the sunlight dry and clean the bottom of the lake. Then they would refill it. Pumps which can drain the lake of 750 gallons of water per minute are already in use to get rid of all that contaminated water. The engineers and the biologists decided this drastic method was the only way to save this beautiful lake. After it is drained, and the bottom allowed to bake in the sun, the rivers that feed the lake will be rechanneled to fill it again with clean water and Lake Apopka once more will become a fisherman's paradise.

Imagine having to drain a lake over 50 square miles in size in order to save it! That's a drastic solution. But think for a moment about yourself. Has the pollution of hatred, anger or defeat started polluting your mind? Maybe the best solution is to drain it.

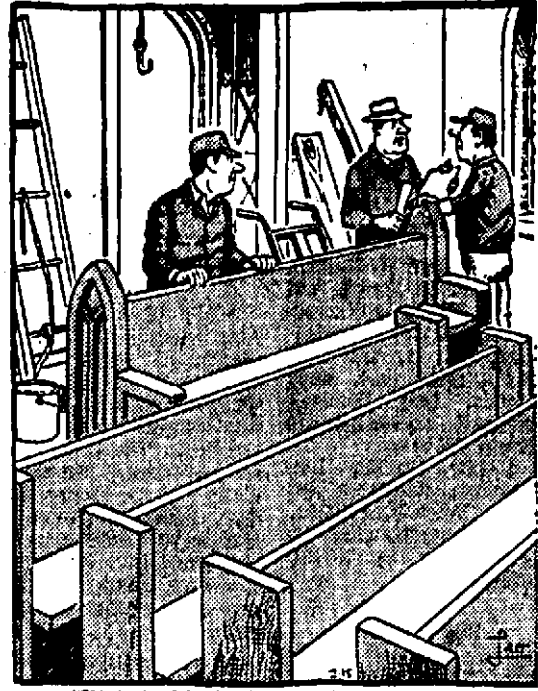

Every human being exposed to the trials and difficulties of life is subject to what the ecologists and other scientists call pollution. But it is a pollution of man's spirit, a taking into consciousness of a mass of unhealthy thoughts and attitudes.

Into any life, yours or mine, come pollutants of doubt, fear, envy or lack of faith in our fellowman. All the poisonous attitudes of mind which can eventually destroy the human spirit sometimes can only be removed by drastic solutions. What is required is draining ourselves of our negative attitudes and letting the cleansing sunlight of fresh new thinking enter our lives, and this can work wonders. It can restore the clear, clean water of faith in the future and faith in ourselves.

If the engineers and the scientists that looked at Lake Apopka only last year had decided there was no way to save it, one of our most beautiful scenic landmarks would have been left to die. But they had faith and answers to the problem. They believed that draining all the poison from the lake could restore it to its original beauty.

Maybe it's not very scientific, but there's a popular song which goes: "Let a little sunshine in." That's what scientists are doing to Lake Apopka. And maybe that's what each of us should do with our own thinking. Drain all the old, melancholy thoughts from the mind and you will let in a clean, bright, new future.

Bruins Belt Beavers

CORVALLIS (Special) — Top-ranked UCLA hiked its basketball record to 21-0 Friday night, turning back Oregon State 71-56 for its ninth successive Pacific-8 Conference win of the season.

UCLA caught the Beavers by surprise by employing a zone defense designed to collapse on Vic Bartolome, OSU's 7-foot center. Bartolome, who leads the nation in field goal accuracy, wound up with five baskets in nine attempts for 10 points. UCLA moves north to Eugene for another Pac-8 contest with Oregon tonight. KTLA (Channel 5) televises the action at 8.

UCLA held Oregon State scoreless in the final 4:16 of the first half to build a 30-22 halftime edge. Oregon State was within six points early in the second half before the Bruins scored nine successive points in 2½ minutes to break the contest wide open.

Sidney Wicks collected 21 points to direct the Bruins and Steve Patterson added 20.

Ducks Drop USC, Take 2nd Place

EUGENE, Ore. (U) — Oregon, behind some nifty outside shooting, pulled away from Southern California in the final nine minutes Friday night to hand the Trojans a 92-83 Pacific-8 Conference basketball setback.

It was Oregon's fifth consecutive conference triumph and gave the Ducks possession of second place behind unbeaten UCLA.

Southern Cal built a 50-43 halftime lead, but Oregon fought back to take a 59-58 edge. Paul Westphal, who led the Trojans with 25 points, and Ron Riley collected field goals to put USC ahead 62-59 before Oregon hit a hot streak and went ahead by as many as 15 points.

Stan Love, who sat out seven minutes of the second half in foul trouble, tossed in 27 points for the Ducks, and teammate Bill Drozdak had 23.

Oregon meets UCLA tonight, while USC is at Oregon State.

McLAIN: 'Smart ...to a Point'

Combined News Services

LAKELAND, Fla. — Denny McLain, suspended from baseball at the age of 25 for "bookmaking activities," sat in the living room of his home Friday and asked the public not to "convict and condemn" him while his $200,000-a-year world came apart at the seams.

"I'm smart to a point—I know how to pitch," said the man who won 55 games for the Detroit Tigers the last two seasons. "But I've made many bad business deals. All my problems stem from my business obligations. I act a lot of times before I think. I'm stupid that way."

"But one of these days the truth will be out. I want to hear the truth out, because it'll present my side. All I ask is the benefit of the doubt until this thing is brought into the open."

McLain was suspended Thursday by the commissioner of baseball, Bowie Kuhn, one day after the pitcher had testified before a federal grand jury in Detroit.

Friday morning a judge in the Detroit suburb of Southfield found McLain guilty of unlawful possession and failure to pay $2,450 rent on his Michigan home.

A "Committee to Aid Denny McLain" has formed in Detroit, hoping to raise funds for the player by printing bumper stickers which read "68 and Denny Lest We Forget." The stickers sell for $1 apiece.

Denny 'Split' Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Catcher Bill Freehan, the unofficial field leader of the Detroit Tigers, charged Friday that pitcher Denny McLain's off-the-field antics had split the team in half.

"Some of the players felt anything he did off the field was all right as long as he kept winning ball games. . . and some felt he ought to be held to the same rules as the rest of us," Freehan said.

Freehan said he had first heard about the investigation into gambling and McLain's possible implication earlier this year.

"If there had to be one fellow on the club it would happen to, I'd say it would be Denny," Freehan said.

16TH WIN IN A ROW

49ers, Shaken and Rattled, Roll Past Gauchos, 99-98

Cal State Long Beach's 99-98 victory over UC Santa Barbara Friday night was a memorable one for coach Jerry Tarkanian.

It gave his club the Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. title—the eighth crown Tarkanian has won in the last eight years — and pushed the 49ers' win streak to 16, their season record to 21-3 and their PCAA credential to an unmatched 8-0.

There was one other milestone.

"That is the first time in eight years," remarked Tarkanian, "that anyone has shot me out of the 1-2-2 zone defense."

The Gauchos, who made four more field goals than the 49ers, amazed a Long Beach Arena crowd of 5,204 by easily getting the ball inside the Cal State defense for easy shots by center Doug Rex and forwards Ron Rouse and John Tschogl.

As might be guessed for a coach who has won 241 of his last 260 games, the Gaucha attack didn't take Tarkanian completely by surprise.

"I had a hunch they might be able to do that," said. "We put in a 2-3 zone this week as kind of a change-up. Santa Barbara is really an intelligent team and they change attacks well."

"What we tried to do was out-think them by constantly switching our defense."

All of the defenses worked well at times and poorly at others, leading Tarkanian to observe:

"The only thing that saved us tonight was our shooting. If we hadn't been shooting well, they would have beaten us."

After Santa Barbara ripped apart the 1-2-2, Tarkanian pulled two defensive switches, and when he moved his team into a 1-3-1 zone the 49ers promptly leaped out to a 46-31 lead 15 minutes into the first half.

The Gauchos refused to wilt, however, and trimmed the deficit to six points at halftime.

Led by guard Larry Silvestri, Santa Barbara remained on the attack in the second half and managed to get even of the 49ers eight times.

The last draw was a 70-all with 10 minutes remaining. The 49ers led the rest of the way but had to

Santa Monica Cuts

Vike Metro Lead

The team that Lute Olson tabbed as the dark horse of the Metropolitan Conference at the start of the season was just that Friday night as Santa Monica City College darkened Long Beach City College's title bid with an 88-73 win.

The surprisingly good Corsairs handed the Vikings their second conference loss and sliced LBCC's seemingly safe lead to a dangerously narrow half-game over defending state champion Pasadena.

"We were out-hustled," Olson said dejectedly in a quiet locker room following the defeat, which dropped the state's No. 2 ranked team to 20-5 on the year and 8-2 in Metro play. The Vikings have lost two of their last three games.

"This is the first time we've been out-hustled," Olson analyzed. "We were

Aroused Lakers Blast Bucks, 119-114

By DOUG IVES

A halftime tongue-lashing by coach Joe Mullaney turned the timid Lakers into Tigers Friday night and lifted them to an early 119-114 victory over Lew Alcindor and the Milwaukee Bucks at the Forum.

A crowd of 17,460 watched the lethargic Lakers trail by 10 at halftime, then blitz the Bucks 35-11 in the third period to take a commanding lead. The score was 117-100 when Mullaney took out his starters with 1:45 remaining.

The shocking turn-about came as the result of what Mullaney called the biggest "fact of life" he has learned in his first year in the pros.

"After all these games," Joe observed, "I've come to believe that just about any combination of guys you put on the court can score. The key is to find five guys who can stop the other team."

So Mullaney changed two starters in the second half, both of whom made significant contributions on both offense and defense, and the Bucks just weren't the same team that left the court shooting 58 percent and leading 64-54.

Mel Counts replaced Rick Roberson and Johnny Egan took over for Dick Garrett, teaming with Happy Hairston, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor. Baylor is no great shakes as a defender, but he played it as well this night as he has all season.

"Two lapses," said Mullaney. "That's all Baylor had. He moved well, helped out and stole a few passes."

To concentrate on defense, Baylor did not have one basket in the big third quarter. No one noticed as the other four Lakers rammed in 13 of 21 shots.

West finished with 37 points, Counts 22, Baylor 20 and Hairston 16. It was Counts' first 20-point game since Jan. 10, and in the second and third periods when he netted all his points he outscored Alcindor by 11.

The Milwaukee giant finished with 31 points but Counts, at 7 feet tall, proved height is more effective in stopping Alcindor than Roberson's muscle. Lew went over Rick with ease, but he struggled against Counts.

The Lakers held an 81-76 lead when Counts picked up his fifth foul, but Milwaukee coach Larry Costello benched Alcindor for a brief spell and the Lakers hiked their lead to 89-78.

Alcindor returned to score four baskets in the fourth period, but by then the Lakers had the Milwaukee guards tied up in knots. West, Baylor and Egan made several steals and the Lakers easily pulled away.

"We played half a game," moaned Costello. "We should have stayed in the dressing room at halftime. The turnovers are Tending goal for the Kings, Gerry Desjardins has learned to roll with the blows.

After learning that he had been traded to the Chicago Black Hawks, he said, "Well, at least now I've got Bobby Hull on my side."

Desjardins' philosophy helped to brighten a frantic Friday around the Forum when the Kings sent six players packing in separate 3-for-3 swaps with Chicago and Detroit, drastically altering the face — and, they hope, the attitude — of the team between Thursday's 6-1 embarrassment by Pittsburgh and tonight's 8 o'clock test with the St. Louis Blues.

Vikings Third as Gades Capture Metro Relays

Rory Kotinek scored a triple win for the Rams, winning the 120 high hurdles (15.9), the long jump (20-1) and the high jump (6-6 1/2).

Jordan nipped Warren, 65-53, in another non-league meet.

Rising Market Ends Racing Career Today at Santa Anita

Eight candidates, including Rising Market, Tell and Figonero, compete in today's $75,000-added Santa Anita Stakes, the last major test for older horses pointing toward the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 7.

The Western Stud's 6-year-old Rising Market, winner of the San Antonio two years ago, will carry high weight of 123 pounds in what the stable says will be his last race. Don Pierce has the ride.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker will be aboard Mrs. Howard B. Keck's Tell, who finished disappointing fourth in the $100,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes last Saturday.

Tell will carry 121 pounds, the same as Clement L. Hirsch's Argentine import, Figonero, in the 1 1/4-mile run.

LONGSHOT Smugglin' George outraced the even-money favorite, Great Epic, and won the $7,500 feature race Friday over six furlongs.

Ridden by Jerry Lambert, the winner took the lead at the top of the stretch and won going away by 3 1/2 lengths. The 3-year-old colt, carrying 114 pounds, paid $21.20, $6.20 and $4.40 for covering the distance in 1:09 2-5.

KINGS---

Johnston and winger Gary Croteau, went to Detroit for defensemen Matt Ravlich and Brian Gibbons and center Garry Monahan.

Gibbons, who like Stanfield has no NHL experience, will go directly to Springfield; the other five will help the Kings confront the first-place Blues. Presumably, DeJordy will guard the net.

King general manager Larry Regan said the deals were made — and "it's possible" that others will follow — in the impossibly desperate hope that the Kings can still earn a playoff berth.

"Otherwise," he added realistically, "we already have a start for next year. By getting 'em now we'll have our team jelled before training camp."

The trades were designed to help the Kings where they need it most, at center and on defense. Desjardins may have bought his ticket last week when he complained of being played while hurt.

Trade rumors, however, buzzed around White for more than a year, but the Kings' only All-Star Game player (twice), said, "I was surprised, really."

White, 30, walked out of training camp last fall demanding to have his contract renegotiated. He missed 15 games.

Living in Inglewood with his wife Gail and three daughters, two in school, he called the trade at this time "a great inconvenience."

From Chicago's standpoint, White was the key man. General manager Tommy Ivan told this newspaper, "With Pat Stapleton injured, we had to get somebody to play the right side. We lost a little in age there (Marotte is 24) but we gained a little in age on the DeJordy (31)-Desjardins (25) deal."

Desjardins will be strictly No. 2 now, playing behind the hottest goalie in the league, rookie Tony Esposito, who has 11 shutouts and a 2.19 goals-against average.

DESJARDINS admitted that his performance has been going "down and down" since he strained knee ligaments in Detroit last month.

Ivan said the injury "doesn't worry me at all." Regan said, "You aren't always happy to let a player go. Desjardins has played fantastically well for us. But I think DeJordy right now is a better goaltender."

DeJordy, understudy Esposito, has played only 10 games but boasts a 2.69 average and a 2.75 NHL lifetime mark, once sharing the Vezina Trophy with Glenn Hall.

Regan added that there are "players we consider to be the nucleus" who Jack Kent Cooke wouldn't consider trading — offhand, probably Ed Joly, Ross Lonsberry and Bill Flett.

Week's Wall Street Trend

AP Business Writer

AP Business Writer

After drifting, prices rebounded sharply Wednesday as administration officials hinted that lower interest rates may be just around the corner. These statements and the market's reaction to them led some analysts to conclude that the long decline finally may have bottomed out.

The new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Arthur Burns, told a congressional committee "monetary and credit policies are likely to tread a narrow path" for several months but it appeared "monetary policy could well move, as the year progresses, toward a posture more nearly in keeping with our economy's long run needs for money and credit."

Walter Heller, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, was even more optimistic. He said the Fed had "oversteered" this severe monetary restraint and predicted a move by the fed toward easier money "within the next month."

ON WEDNESDAY, commerce secretary Maurice Stans also predicted that the Fed would ease its monetary policies in a matter of months.

The rally carried through into Thursday but then began to fizzle and on Friday prices closed mixed.

Herman Roseman, vice president of Argus Research Corp., said remarks by government officials that monetary restraint would be eased "can bring one or two rallies" but the market "must have positive proof" to sustain an upswing.

But Lucien Hooper, senior analyst for W. E. Hutton, said he believed it was pretty clear the Fed is not making money any tighter and now "everybody wants to believe that monetary restraint soon will be eased."

Another analyst said there was some optimism on Wall Street because the Dow Jones Industrial Average had successfully withstood another test of the 740 level. He said he thought conditions were right for a rally which would carry the Dow to the 755 level.

For the week, the Dow Jones Industrial Average which measures movement in 30 selected blue chip gained 4.16 to 757.46. The DJ utility average also gained but the transportation average slipped a bit.

The UPI marketing indicator was up 1.03 to 93.6. Of 1,751 issues traded, advances led declines, 991 to 614. There were 37 issues reaching new 1963-70 highs while 214 hit new lows.

The New York Stock Exchange index reflected gain of 71 cents in the price of an average share of common stock.

Newest Bauer Homes Open in Cerritos

Exciting, moderately priced homes that have unprecedented recreational facilities are spotlighted in the two new Bauer Homes neighborhoods in a king their debut in Cerritos today.

Warren Bauer, president of Bauer Development Co., said:

"We know these homes are exciting. Three of the five models are improved versions of the first homes our firm built last spring. And 23 families bought those homes in the first two weeks we were open! And we've made many exciting additions, including a cozy sunken conversation pit in front of the fireplace.

"We know, too, that these homes are outstanding values," Bauer added.

"Their immediate predecessors were cited by an independent research firm as having the lowest cost per square foot of any home in the area. And, thanks to our continuing policy of minimum overhead, we are able to offer luxuriously finished homes with expensive features at amazingly low prices for this era of ever-increasing costs.

"ONE OF OUR homes is priced below $25,000. Four of the five models are below $30,000, and the fifth, which is just over $30,000, contains such luxurious features as that conversation pit, plus two fireplaces, and a 406-square-foot master suite.

"And, finally," Bauer said, "we believe these homes have truly unprecedented recreational facilities. We feel pretty safe in saying, for example, that the new park which will adjoin our development on South Street will be a true showplace facility.

"And we believe we're almost as safe in saying that our new neighborhood on Marquardt Street will be the first development of its size (115) homes to have its own private swim and recreation club.

"This, we think is the first time anyone is bringing the kind of recreational living one normally associates with an expensive development in the distant suburbs to a smaller, close-in neighborhood of moderately priced homes."

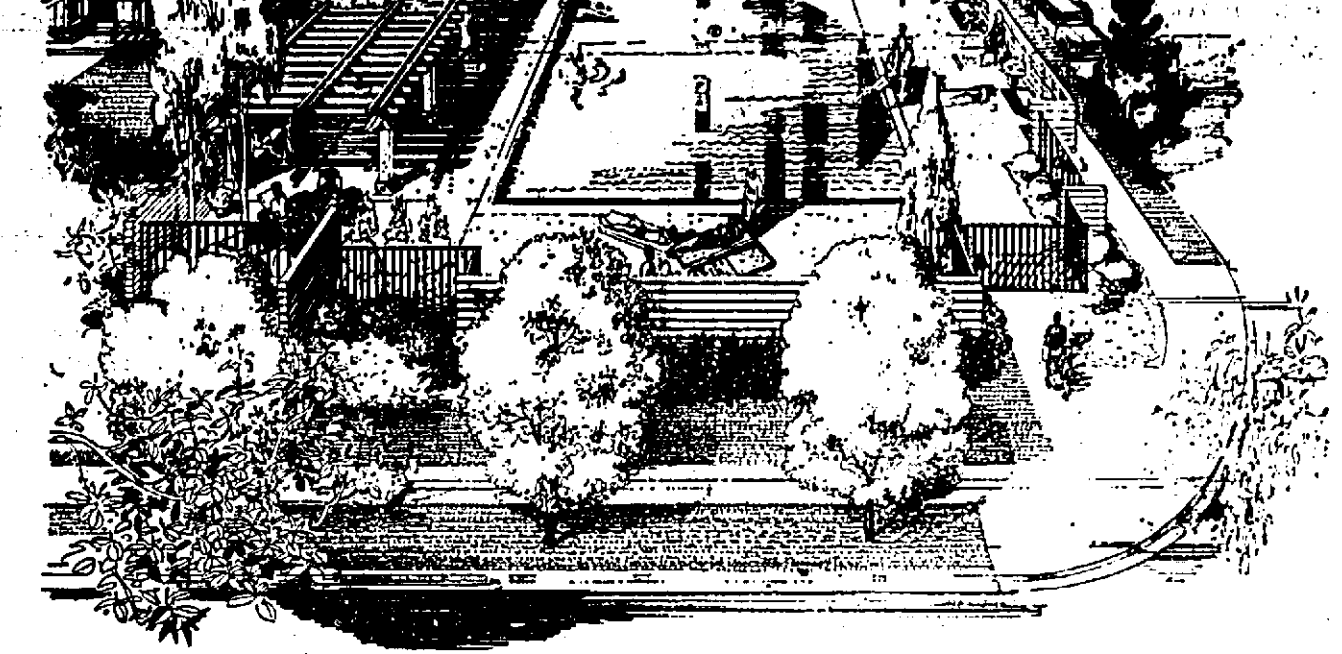

BAUER explained that the original plan for the Marquardt Street development was to build 116 homes and no recreation club.

However, for some time he has harbored a belief that homebuyers should be treated as people not numbers. He also believes that, as a builder, he can help his customers find a better way of life in addition to providing comfortable shelter.

So, he is not building the 116th home on a corner lot at the entrance to the community.

He substituted a 5,000-square-foot recreational facility built around a large pool.

In addition to the pool, which measures 25x40 feet,

POOL, CABANA, PICNIC, ALL-PURPOSE COURT . . . For Bauer Homes, Cerritos

the club has a pool-length cabana, built-in outdoor furniture and picnic area with gas barbecues.

A HANDSOME building contains both change rooms and rest rooms. An important part of the club is the sports court, which provides space for paddle tennis, volley ball, tether ball or basketball.

Bauer stresses that the club will belong to the homeowners. Maintenance fees will be shared by all residents, bringing the per-family cost down to $4.15 per month, "a great saving when compared to owning a pool."

Most Bauer home plans include fireplaces with log lighters and carpeting in the living room, hall and master bedrooms. Some models have self-cleaning ovens and luminous ceilings in the bathrooms. All have such quality features as underground utilities, concrete driveways, copper plumbing, hardwood kitchen cabinets with furniture finishes, and ceramic tile countertops.

AMONG the much-wanted architectural features are covered and/or sheltered entries, custom exterior detailing with lavish use of wood, vaulted-ceiling living rooms with fireplaces, spacious Country Kitchens and walk-in closets.

While the present homes are only the second series Bauer has built under his own name, he has been in

SHIELDS . . . Demands High Quality Materials In Homes

Long Experience Evident in All Shields-Built Homes

When Larry Shields began building houses nearly 20 years ago, he did it the only way he knew how — from the ground up.

He literally scouted each home location and, with a partner, built each home from the foundation to the roof with his own hands.

Because he was building "on speculation" — that is, a custom home with no definite buyer — he had to put in the finest quality materials and the best workmanship he could.

The lessons he learned from that experience over a 12-year period have stayed with him until today.

Since he first started, Shields has built almost 10,000 homes in Southern California.

Because of his background and experience, he is aware of the critical steps which must be taken, and exactly what has to be put into each home in order for the owner to be able to enjoy it to its fullest.

IT IS THIS attention to detail and close scrutiny at each step of homebuilding which has won for Larry Shields numerous homebuilding awards and honors from other members of his industry.

Although he now has a large crew and several projects going at once, he is constantly aware of what is being done, and has been seen at his building site at the most unexpected times.

Because of the large volume, Shields is also able to demand only the highest quality materials at a lower price, which is always passed along to the homebuyer.

An ambitious builder, Shields was one of the first of the so-called independent developers in Orange County to undertake the planning and building of a totally master planned community.

THIS community is Westhaven, in Fountain Valley-Westminster which is now selling out the ninth unit of homes.

With one and two-story models priced from $31,095, each home includes a complete built-in kitchen and a total turn key package of carpets, drapes and other "extras."

'I like to build a home a family really can be happy in.'

Eventually, this Westhaven community will contain 600 homes, several shopping centers, parks, schools and all of the facilities which are needed in a modern community.

Because Shields has built apartments and shopping centers as well as homes, he has been able to employ many cost-saving techniques.

Shields has also had the foresight to plan ahead, acquiring large parcels of land early — before the large land boom which sent prices soaring, and in addition to Westhaven, has built Yorktowne and Yorktowne II.

YORKTOWNE is in Huntington Beach, with two, three and four-bedroom

Crestwood in Preview Today at Fountain Valley

Fountain Valley civic leader Dale Stuard, well-known builder of custom homes and apartments in Southern California for 17 years, will preview his first planned community development, Crestwood, this weekend at the corner of Slater and Magnolia Streets in the city of Fountain Valley.

"Crestwood represents a new idea in planned community development, with the key being 'controlled environment' with all streets, parks, playground, recreation facilities and parking serving only the residents of the community," Stuard commented.

Forty-eight, three and four-bedroom, two and three-bath homes, priced from $29,900, and now in the finishing stages of construction, will feature sunny California-styled-kitchens with all built-ins, including an optional self cleaning oven; wall-to-wall carpeting; full heavy cedar shake roofs; concrete walks and driveways; fenced rear yards; professionally landscaped front yards with sprinklers; free decorator service; as well as many other deluxe features.

STUARD noted, however, that highlight of Crestwood will be the community recreation pavilion, adjacent to the large heated pool and "tot lot" for children.

Ample pool decking will provide residents with the opportunity for hosting many parties or meetings.

Stuard has been a resident of Fountain Valley for 20 years and for the past seven years has served as a member and president of the Board of Education of the Fountain Valley Elementary School District. He also was a member of the original planning commission of the city.

Five homes have been pre-sold, and although the homes are not completely finished families are welcome to tour Crestwood at any time.

The development is open daily at the corner of Slater and Magnolia streets a quarter of a mile south of the San Diego Freeway in Fountain Valley.

Mansell, Muchmore Among Experts Participating in March 5 'Congress'

City Manager John Mansell and Don Muchmore, senior vice president of California Federal Savings, will be among the authorities participating in the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce 10th Congress for Community Progress on March 5 at the Long Beach Elks Lodge.

Chairman Henry H. Clock said Mansell will be the keynote speaker for the opening session with a report on the city's accomplishments during 1969 and a preview of major programs and projects for the current year.

Mansell's address will be followed by presentations and group discussions on "The Mobility of Goods and People," "The Quality of Life in Our Urban Society," "Creative City Planning" and "Education for a Changing Society."

DON MUCHMORE, Long Beach resident and chairman of the board of Opinion Research of California and the State Poll, Inc., will conclude the Congress with a wrap-up presentation following the Congress luncheon session.

"We're especially delighted to have men of the capabilities and community understanding of Mansell and Muchmore for the very important opening session and conclusion of the Congress," Clock said.

The balance of the Congress program will feature talks by national authorities on transportation, urban planning and development and education.

"The Congress format also includes concurrent breakout sessions that will encourage maximum citizen participation in the open discussion of local issues that relate to these subjects," Clock said.

Foreign Cars Get Bigger Share of Southland Sales

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Whether it's a sleek sports job or a no-nonsense economy model, foreign cars are registering an increasing share of the market in total new car sales in California.

Statistics compiled by Crocker-Citizens National Bank indicate that last year better than 25 per cent of all new cars sold were imports.

Specifically, of the more than 900,000 new vehicles added to the state's highways during the year, approximately 250,000 were foreign-made.

This was a 30 per cent increase over 1968's total foreign unit sales of 192,000 vehicles. In 1967, Californians purchased 143,000 foreign autos.

Overall sales for all passenger cars last year were up 16 per cent from 1968 and 31 per cent above the 1967 level. That year, Californians purchased 605,000 Detroit-engineered cars and, the following year, added 651,000 American autos. Domestic sales for last year will approximate 730,000 units.

Informal reports from automobile dealers indicate that current sales statewide for all passenger cars are off by 8-9 per cent from last year. Generally, a downturn in auto sales is expected for 1970.

Computer For Autos

The oil in your car may be dirty after 1,000 miles of driving—or clean after 6,000 miles.

And a tiny electrolytic cell about the size of a navy bean can, it is said, solve the auto maintenance dilemma for individual car owners and small vehicle fleets.

The device is known as an E-Cell and it has been widely used in systems for jet aircraft maintenance for three years.

During the past year, Bissett-Berman Corporation, Santa Monica, has developed systems to automate the maintenance of construction equipment.

Most recently, the company has introduced a service computer for automobiles and it is presently developing franchises to market these throughout the United States.

The service computer is known as the Sentry-7 and it fits under an automobile dashboard. In operation, the small analog computer does three jobs: it draws current from the car battery to log calendar days, it counts hours of engine operation and it records seconds of engine starting time.

When these three elements, weighted according to importance, add up to a pre-determined total, a warning light indicates that the vehicle should be serviced.

"Most automobile drivers and fleet operators schedule maintenance arbitrarily—thus wasting money. This is especially the case where a large number of vehicles are involved," explained Thomas Bissett, executive vice president of Bissett-Berman.

Tight Money Stays On

Tight money is here to stay, Rudolph A. Peterson, recently retired Bank of America president, said last week.

"Credit demands in the next decade continually will exceed financial savings," he told the American Bankers Association's national credit conference at San Francisco.

Peterson, now Bank of America's executive committee chairman, cited these factors which he judged would make inevitable a chronic shortage of funds:

- Massive new public investments required for airport construction, urban rapid transit, pollution control, and low income housing will need large amounts of debt financing.
- An increasing proportion of young adults in the population will borrow more than they will save.
- Federal economic policies will continue to be biased toward full employment and rapid economic growth, probably at the expense of price stability.
- A new generation of American business managers, reared in continuous prosperity, will not be reluctant to use debt for investment funds.
- The government's political and economic commitments to lesser developed nations will continue soaking up large amounts of funds.

Area's Building Activity

Capsule report on this area's building activity:

LONG BEACH . . . The $30-million project to expand the Port of Long Beach, largest such undertaking in the 59-year history of the harbor, got under way with the opening of bids for the dredging contract. More than 11 million cubic yards of channel bottom will be dredged to create 140 acres of land, and the sand taken from the channel bottoms will result in deeper fairways to accommodate deep-draft super tankers and bulk carriers. The project, to be completed in 1973, is expected to develop $2.8 million annually in new port revenues.

REDONDO BEACH . . . Construction will begin before mid-year on a $4 million waterfront apartment-hotel, catering to the traveling business executive, on a site less than seven miles south of Los Angeles International Airport. The complex will include a 174-room hotel, 123 apartments, restaurant, health club, sauna baths, gymnasium and swimming pool. It will be called Redondo Bay Club when it is completed within a year after the starting date.

WESTMINSTER . . . Construction has been started on a $2.8 million, 216-unit apartment complex by Springfield Investment Company on Garden Grove Boulevard near the San Diego Freeway. Completion is expected in mid-1970.

LONG BEACH . . . Pacific Hospital, 2776 Pacific Avenue, established a new major health complex in the city this month with the purchase of two former convalescent hospitals across the street. Pacific, a 183-bed community hospital for general medical and surgical care, will use one building for a 50-bed intermediate-care center and the other as a 99-bed extended-care center. The hospital expects the program to reduce hospital costs for many patients.

ARTESIA . . . A new post office under construction at 183rd Street and Alburis Avenue, which will serve 100,000 to 125,000 residents of the Artesia-Cerritos area, will be finished by mid-summer.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY . . . The first 55 homes will be occupied this month in the $14 million Larwin Company's Tiburon development, southeast of the intersection of Brookhurst and Talbert Streets. The country club atmosphere, one- and two-story townhouses range in price from $23,750 to $28,990.

LONG BEACH . . . A $2.8 million centralized administration and operating base for the Long Beach Gas Department has been approved by the City Council at a 13.7-acre site at Junipero Avenue and Spring Street. When the new facility is completed, in about 18 months,

It will replace the outgrown one at 215 W. Broadway.

ON THE WORLD MARKET

By REVAN KOMA ROFF

In the beginning was the word.

The would-be export entrepreneur must convince his would-be financial backers that he has an idea for forming and running an export company, which will sell market-acceptable products, and operate at a profit.

Although he may do a fair amount of verbal pleading, he probably will not even get a hearing unless he carries in his hand a piece of promotional literature known as a "business plan."

Although he has probably not written a line of selling copy in his life, now the promoter is faced with the need to open doors to the financial community by telling investors what they want to hear.

Since not many new-company export promoters are equipped by education or experience for the task of business plan preparation, not many business plans are as effective as they might be in turning on the financial community.

Despite the fine educational job being done by leading business schools and management organizations, the subject of developing, financing and managing a new venture remains largely an untreated topic.

IF YOU are starting a new company, organizing a new division or subsidiary, or considering an acquisition, these are the critical questions for you to consider.

1. Provide a one-page summary of the venture idea.
2. Describe the key goals and objectives. Specify what you are setting out to achieve, particularly your sales and profitability goals.
3. Provide an in-depth market analysis. If you can support your own probe with some solid numbers from a prestigious researcher such as the U.S. Department of Commerce, so much the better.
4. List the names of six close competitor firms, and briefly analyze their strengths and weaknesses.
5. Provide a list of potential customers who have expressed an interest in your projected products.
6. List and categorize the key technologies and skills required to develop and sell the products. Indicate which frontiers are being pushed hardest.

7. Describe the type and geographical distribution of your anticipated field service organization.
8. Present a flow-event-log feedback chart, illustrating achievement milestones and showing stepped levels of when and how additional funds should go into the venture.
9. Describe the rationale for choosing any single area of concentration.
10. Present cash flow projections, monthly for the first 24 months, and then quarterly for the next three years.
11. Present your position on the degree of ownership control you seek, and the limits to which these can be varied with time and profitability.

There is it Use It and prosper.

Auto Production Continues Skid

Continuing slowdown in automobile production offset strong surface transport gains to pull the Index back 0.1 per cent from last week's level.

This week's auto production drop was 5.7 per cent, a decrease of 20.6 per cent from last year and the result of manufacturers' attempts to cut inventories in the face of January sales — down 16.5 per cent below those of January, 1969.

Steel output rose slightly, by 0.5 per cent but remained 5.7 per cent below the level of a year ago. However, a rise in orders in January, based on overseas demand and hedging by buyers on a March price increase, indicates that production levels will improve in coming weeks.

Retail sales gains of 4.2 per cent during the week as well as improved weather conditions are reflected in a rise of 8.6 per cent in miscellaneous carloadings; an increase of 6.1 per cent in all other carloadings; and a 7.5 per cent gain in truck tonnage.

Electric power output, in a seasonal fluctuation, slid 5.1 per cent during the week, while crude oil refinery runs gained 0.6 per cent.

Paperboard production, not yet responsive to the retail sales rise, dropped 2.5 per cent.

Orange Mall to Showcase 2 Leading Retail Institutions

A new enclosed shopping center in North Orange County will be opened in 1971, the first retail complex in Southern California to boast carpeting throughout.

Situated in Orange, the major development, to be called Orange Mall, will involve an estimated investment of $30 million in land and buildings and another $30 million in retail fixtures and merchandise.

It will showcase two leading retail institutions.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. which has operated independently for 24 years, will anchor the south end of the mall complex, with 273,500 square feet, while the Broadway Department Store will lure customers to the north end with 167,500 square feet over three stories.

"We are eagerly anticipating the development of Orange Mall and the opportunity it will provide to serve additional residents of Orange County," said Phillip M. Hawley, president of Broadway Department Stores. "The decision to build a fourth Broadway in Orange County was not made lightly and only underscores our belief in the existing and future potential of the area."

Denny's Restaurants, Inc., La Mirada-based, achieved new records in sales, revenues, and earnings in the first half of the current fiscal year, president Harold Butler announced.

In the six months ended Dec. 26, as compared with the corresponding period in the previous fiscal year, total restaurant sales were $59,396,261 versus $43,775,141, a 36 per cent increase; company revenues were $37,472,211 versus $25,803,375, a 45 per cent gain; pretax earnings amounted to $6,528,422 versus $4,697,748, a 39 per cent advance; and net income was $3,477,677 versus $2,739,331, a 27 per cent increase.

In the first half of this year, federal income tax represented 47 per cent of pre-tax income compared with 42 per cent in the like period of last year.

In the first half of the current fiscal year, earnings per share amounted to 48 cents based on 7,272,000 equivalent common shares outstanding compared with 38 cents in the prior year based on 7,244,000 shares.

Earnings per share in the first half of the current fiscal year based on 6,158,000 shares actually outstanding, and after deducting preferred dividends, amounted to 53 cents as compared to 41 cents in the first half a year earlier when there were 6,018,000 shares outstanding.

Denny's Restaurants, Inc., now has a total of 620 restaurants and donut shops in 13 states and Mexico. This compares with 509 units in operation at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Developer of Orange Mall is Harry Newman, Jr., president of Newman Properties, Long Beach, and also president of the International Council of Shopping Centers.

Newman said the 61-acre complex, to start construction this June, would provide a total of 900,000 square feet of retail facilities, and parking for 4,700 cars.

Orange Mall will be the beneficiary of traffic from the busy intersection of the Newport and Riverside Freeways, and the site itself is bounded by Tustin Boulevard, Heim and Meats Avenues.

THE GSX... New From Buick

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Buick Motor Division has introduced a sleek new sports coupe, the GSX, featuring front and rear spoilers, hood-mounted tachometer, superwide billboard tires, power disc brakes and special paint striping.

The two-door hardtop model, which will be available about March 1, will be the featured attraction in the Buick exhibit at the Chicago Auto Show.

The GSX is basically a GS 455 with spoilers and distinctive paint striping. It is available with either the regular 455 cubic inch engine or the Stag 1 option, which includes a high lift camshaft and other special engine components.

The car is offered in two exclusive exterior colors — Saturn Yellow and Apollo White with black striping. The center section of the hood, with its twin air scoops, also is painted black.

A FOUR-SPEED FLOOR-MOUNTED manual transmission with console is standard on the GSX. A three-speed Turbo-Hydromatic transmission with a full length console is available as an option.

The front spoiler on the GSX is mounted under the bumper. The tapered black stripe the full length of the car carries over onto the elevated rear spoiler mounted on the deck lid.

The GSX also comes equipped with a rallye ride control system which includes heavy duty springs and shock absorbers and rear stabilizer. Fast variable ratio power steering is offered as an option.

The GSX also is equipped with oil and water temperature gages instead of red warning lights.

While the production model of the GSX will be making its first appearance at the Chicago Auto Show, a prototype has been exhibited at auto shows in Detroit, Los Angeles and Dallas.

Tobacco Farms

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Despite debate in both the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives on the future of cigarettes, Kentucky tobacco experts here are predicting farmers will show $5 million more earnings for 1969 than for 1968.

The Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said sales in 1969 are expected to exceed the record 74 cents per pound set last year.

Tri-Cor in Management Reorganization in L.B.

The growing impact of metal buildings on the construction industry has resulted in Tri-Cor, Inc., Long Beach, tripling its sales figures over the past 12 months, and projecting $8 million in sales for 1970.

Tri-Cor, largest franchised dealer in the U.S. for the Pascoe Steel Corp., can assemble over 2,000 different varieties of pre-engineered metal buildings as well as other types of structures.

To meet the demand, it has been necessary for Tri-Cor to not only expand, but completely reorganize the management chart.

THIS WAS accomplished under the supervision of president Bob Slaton, with the assistance of Chris Planje of Case & Co., a nationally-known management consulting firm.

Charles S. Doherty has been appointed vice-president in charge of operations. Construction, engineering and estimating will report directly to Doherty.

Don Tucker, who formerly served as auditor, is now the controller.

Ben Fallgren has been assigned as project manager for the Army Outpost Terminal. He will reside at that site.

Dave Illsley is transferred from construction to sales and will report to Hynes.

Bruffey, principal engineer and Bill Austin, draftsman.

BESIDES its activities involving original design work, and special military aircraft hangar projects, Tri-Cor continues to serve as the top builder for Pascoe Steel Corp.

Pascoe metal buildings are in great demand throughout the country because of maximum economies realized through pre-engineering, skillful assembly of standard parts for the most efficient structural utilization and the mass production of precision components, Slaton points out.

Tri-Cor is based in Long Beach at 1301 E. Burnett.

Jewish Cemetery Planned

Plans for the establishment of a Jewish Cemetery in Sunnyside Park have been initiated at a meeting called by Rabbi Max H. Kert with local rabbis and Cecil Bryan, president of Sunnyside Mausoleum Co.

Bryan presented plans for a mausoleum and a demarcated and landscaped site for the proposed development.

"I believe one's roots should be planted deep within the soil of a community," Rabbi Fort said. "Since Long Beach has such a dedicated and loyal Jewish citizenry, I feel they deserve a monument to dedication."

Plans for a formal dedication are to be announced soon. Meanwhile, information can be obtained by calling Glasband-Willen Long Beach Mortuary, Rabbi Kert said.

The Long Beach office will be Wells Fargo's 20th in Southern California. The bank has more than 250 statewide.

WORLD OF WINGS

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Pan American World Airways will inaugurate Boeing 747 Pacific service March 10 when the airline's Round-the-World Flight One leaves Los Angeles International Airport for Honolulu and Tokyo.

The 362-passenger plane will leave Los Angeles at 9 a.m. daily, arriving in Japan at 5 p.m. the next day after crossing the International Dateline.

The route will be the fourth Pan Am 747 service. New York-London flights began in January and New York-San Juan service started Feb. 7. New York-Paris schedules will be inaugurated March 1.

The added capacity of the 747 service is expected to continue to boost international travel figures at Los Angeles, where a 33.6 per cent increase was registered last year in passengers on flights to and from other countries as compared to only 4.7 per cent overall traffic increase over 1968.

CLIFTON A. MOORE, Los Angeles Department of Airports general manager, reported 1,197,713 air travelers passing through Los Angeles in 1969 were on international flights out of a total of 21,310,068 passengers.

The increase of 4.7 per cent was barely a third of the average annual increase of about 14 per cent during the past decade. Aircraft arrivals and departures totaled 613,938, for a 3.3 per cent rise.

Ontario International, the only satellite airport to Los Angeles with appreciable commercial traffic, logged 743,819 passengers in 1969, for a whopping 29.7 per cent increase. The increase was handled with a drop in aircraft operations of 13.2 per cent to 155,035.

At Van Nuys Airport, the Los Angeles general aviation field, business and private aircraft movements also decreased by 7.4 per cent from 1968 for a total of 526,230.

Continental Airlines, which is scheduled to receive its first 747 in May and put it into Hawaiian service in June, this week tried out some of the jumbo-jet passenger-service equipment on Los Angeles-Honolulu flights.

Micro-wave ovens designed for use on the 747 were installed on a Continental 707 to acquaint stewards with their operation and check on customer acceptance of the improved cooking method. The equipment, designed by Litton Industries, is the first production model to be used by any airline.

Continental's service personnel expect the new galley system to speed up service as well as provide more tasty meals. The micro-wave method cooks faster than conventional electric ovens and also eliminates the need for partially pre-cooking some items, with a consequent loss of flavor.

Squaw Valley Fifth Unit Going on Sale Today

At the gateway to Disney Productions' proposed Mineral King ski resort, Squaw Valley, a 30,000-acre subdivision of lakes, rolling hills and oak trees, opens its fifth unit today of five to 24-acre parcels of recreational land.

Called Squaw Valley Ranchos, the fifth unit of the $5.1 million subdivision has numerous fishing streams. The rolling hills are populated with deer, quail and dove.

is on the property.

Located 221 miles north of Los Angeles via U.S. 99 and then over State Highway 63 from Visalia or via State Highway 180 from Fresno, Squaw Valley got its name when an Indian trading post was established at Dunlap in the late 1800s.

Fresno County Supervisors are contesting the use of Squaw Valley's name by Placer County Supervisors for their ski resort, suggesting they change its name to "Olympic Valley."

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Santa Fe Railway will cut its capital outlays to $170 million in 1970 from $190 million this year, President John S. Reed disclosed.

IN A RESOLUTION, Fresno County Supervisors said: "There is a certain swampy, muddy, stagnant, snag-filled pond in Fresno County to which the name Tahoe might be claimed

Richard Sterling and Associates, 6922 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, is the sales agency assigned by the landholder, John Bonadelle.

"We are giving buyers the opportunity to purchase relatively large parcels of land as an investment in their recreational future and at a nominal price," Bonadelle said.

PRICES range as follows: 5 acres, from $4,990; 7 acres, from $6,990; 9 acres, from $7,290; 20 acres, from $9,990 and 24 acres, from $14,990.

SQUAW VALLEY VISITOR ... Enjoys Tranquility of Area

Within 25 miles of the subdivision are Kings Canyon National Park, Sequoia National Park, and Disney Productions' proposed $85 million Mineral King ski resort, an alpine paradise which promises to be the largest and most beautiful in the world.

SQUAW VALLEY hasn't changed much since the establishment of the Indian trading post, which still exists, but change is inevitable now, with Disney's Mineral King resort going to a skier's paradise in 1976 with an estimated visitor draw of 1.7 million annually, said Bonadelle.

"Mineral King will become the Disneyland of the snow country and its gateway is Squaw Valley," he added.

Goodyear Providing Superjet Cargo Units

Continental Airlines has ordered 363 Aircap baggage-cargo containers from Goodyear Aerospace Corporation for use aboard its Boeing 747 superjets.

Continental will receive three of the giant aircraft in late spring, with a fourth scheduled for delivery in the spring of 1971. In Continental's "Proud Bird of the Pacific" configuration, the 747 will carry 333 passengers in three classes of service.

The universal Aircap baggage-cargo containers, made of corrugated aluminum, fit into the lower deck cargo compartments of the 747. They will hold 2,600 pounds of passenger baggage or a like amount of cargo each.

The units measure five feet wide, five feet high and seven and one-half feet long across the top (they angle at the bottom, to fit the plane's shape).

THIRTY of them will fit into each superjet, 16 in the forward compartment and 14 in the aft compartment. The Aircap units are made to fit other wide-bodied aircraft.

The units are constructed of corrugated aluminum with Bondolite sandwich shelving. The Bondolite consists of aluminum surfaces bonded to an end-grain balsa wood core. Shelves inside are adjustable. Doors fold up and out of the way for loading or unloading.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN

The Department of the Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries has bumped the interest charged on fishery loans from 7 1/2 per cent to 8 per cent.

Philip M. Roedel, bureau director, said that by law the interest rate is based on the average yield of government obligations with maturities of seven years.

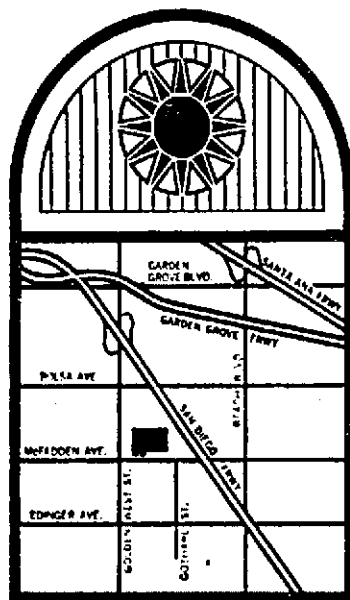

On Dec. 31, 1969, this yield increased to 7 1/2 per cent, necessitating a corresponding increase in the interest rate on fishery loans.

These loans are direct government loans to owners of fishing vessels to be used to finance and refinance the cost of purchasing, constructing, equipping, maintaining, repairing, or operating commercial fishing vessels or fishing gear when funds are not otherwise available on reasonable terms.

AHA Plans Council as 'Own Police'

The time has come for the Apartment House Associations throughout the United States to establish uniform standards for the industry they represent, according to Bernhard J. Specht, president of Apartment House Association, Long Beach-Southern Cities. He spoke at the Elks Club before more than 200 income property owners this week.

Specht revealed the Apartment House Association will for man Owner-Tenant Council to hear alleged grievances in order to help eliminate overcrowded civil court calendars. It would also deter the necessity for tenant unions and tenant strikes that are mushrooming throughout the country, Specht said.

"We have experienced one in Long Beach, a problem in Huntington Beach that is on its way to a tenant strike, and a threatened tenant strike in the Torrance area and another one slated for Long Beach."

Tenant strikes and lawsuits brought by individuals only throw a blight on the whole industry and effect the income property owner who is trying to maintain accepted standards as outlined by building and health codes in his area, Specht stated.

"OUR investigation into the majority of these problems have resulted in cold hard facts of poor management and the owner-operator not complying to the health and building code regulations after the owner has been given violation inspection reports by the city government officials," the Apartment House Association president revealed.

The council will be made up of seven representatives representing the Health Department, Building and Safety Department, Realty Board, Housing Authority, Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau and the Apartment House Association.

These organizations have been contacted, and they have pledged their support and representation, the AHA spokesman stated.

The Apartment House Association, Long Beach-Southern Cities is the largest association in the United States, and we feel that "slumlording" is a cancerous growth caused by ill-advised owners or those who have neglected educational programs offered by the income property industry, Specht told the audience.

INCOME property owners were urged by the apartment official to "Join the association in the promotion of the Owner-Tenant's Council and police your own industry before the Federal Government takes over completely."

Directors of the association, Long Beach-Southern Cities, have endorsed the program, and if the pilot program is as successful as contemplated, it should go nationwide, Specht said.

Other speakers of the evening were Charles R. Brady, attorney, who spoke on "Rent Strikes and Tenant Unions;" Specht, on "Handling the Welfare Problems;" and Eugene L. Zechmeister, executive vice president, on "Forms-Management".

Gourmet Sunday Continues at Lyon's 'The Colony' Homes

More than 3,500 people turned out last Sunday for the first sneak preview of Wm. Lyon's "The Colony" homes on the Irvine Ranch.

One of the highlights of the day's events was the first of four "Gourmet Sunday" cooking contests headed by TV-radio chef Mike Roy. Roy has designed the first "gourmet kitchen" in volume housing today.

The cooking contests continue today with 175 cakes and tortes to be on display and sampled by visitors to the building site on Culver Road just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

Southern California Edison home economists will judge the entries — with the grand prize winner to receive an expense paid trip to Hawaii.

This award will be made at the concluding "Gourmet Sunday" on March 8. Musical entertainment will be provided and a radio station will do a two-hour program from the big contest circus tent erected on the site.

Additionally, a local cablevision company will film the proceedings and early visitors will get an opportunity to see themselves on TV played back in the tent during the afternoon.

"THE COLONY" is the first building venture for the Lyon company on the sprawling Irvine Ranch.

It will eventually consist of 475 homes, all designed by award winning designer, B. A. Berkus and Associates.

The model homes, now under construction, introduce a number of innovations in addition to the "Gourmet Kitchen," all following the "art of living" merchandising theme at "The Colony."

Roy's "Gourmet Kitchen" is not yet installed, but homebuyers will get to see a near life-size reproduction of the special room.

The artist's concept rendering will be the stage backdrop for the entertainment offered during the day.

OF SPECIAL interest to homebuyers should be the American Standard "bathing pool" in several of the master bedroom suites of the executive size homes.

This is a "super-size," 4½x6-foot bathtub with molded-in seating area.

Farrow Realty Plans Course for Sales Staff

Al Tomsik, nationally known sales training expert, will inaugurate a real estate sale oriented course for the nearly 150 members of the Farrow Realty Corporation's sales staff, the company's head, Jerry Farrow announced this week.

Tomsik's sales courses and seminars have been held for some of the nation's largest corporations and will bring new approaches and techniques to the real estate field, Farrow explained.

THE advanced schooling will be aimed at the members of both Farrow's new home sales staffs and the 20 Orange County resale offices and will cover a score of real estate oriented subjects.

"In today's competitive and ever-changing home sale market, we feel actual in-the-field training can be extremely valuable for both our personnel and our customers," Farrow said.

Customs District Ranks 2nd

For the second successive year, the Los Angeles U.S. Customs district, which includes the ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach, collected the second largest amount of revenue of all districts in the country: $274 million.

New York seaport ranked first.

The figures constitutes a 16 per cent rise for Los Angeles over 1968 when the total was $236 million.

The statistics were released recently by U.S. Customs Commissioner Myles J. Ambrose.

Dramatic growth of Los Angeles' international trade is seen in this 10-year perspective: last year, Los Angeles' collections were 28 per cent of New York's. But in 1959, with collections about $73 million, Los Angeles' revenues came to only 15 per cent of New York's.

W & Lee Opens in Whittier

Celebrating its 29th year, Anaheim-based Walker & Lee, Inc., real estate firm, broke ground in Whittier this week for its 29th office.

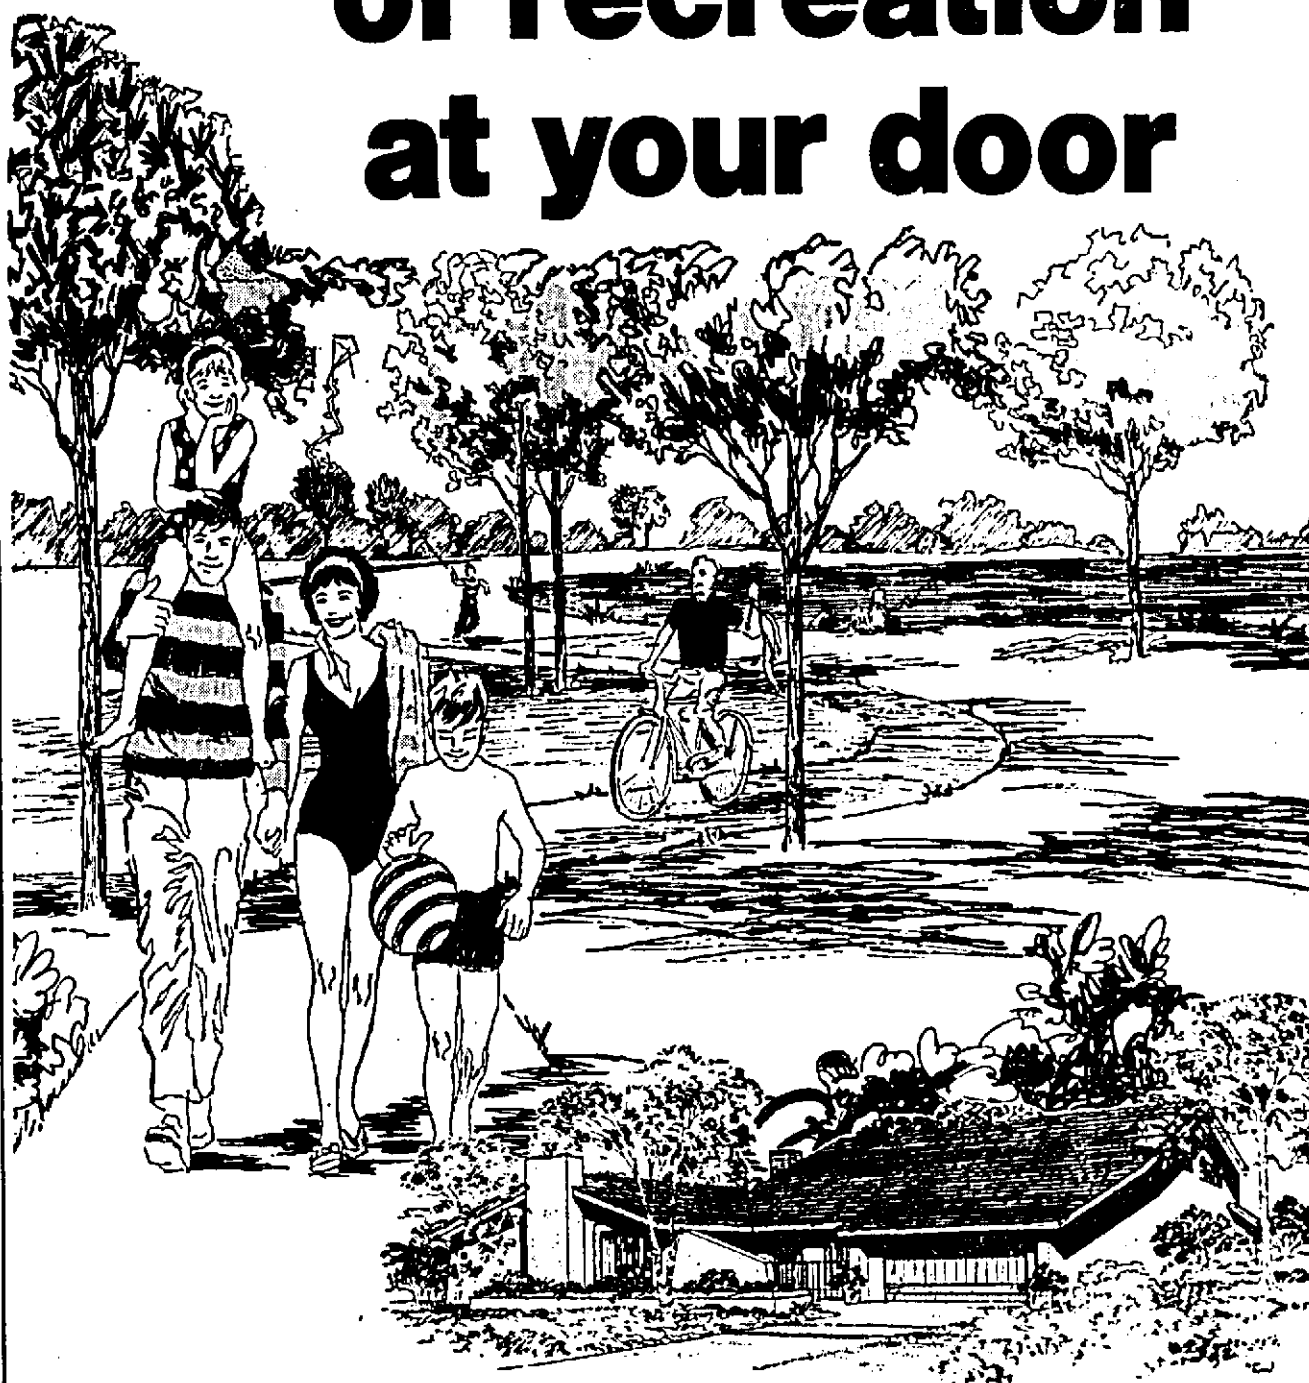

While noting the coincidental numerals, Frank R. Hart, president of the firm, stated that the company has no intention of waiting until 1971, its 30th year, to open its 30th office.

"We will continue our current major expansion program," he said, "and it calls for several more new offices this year."

The Whittier facility near the intersection of Leffingwell Road and First Avenue, will be both a real estate office and an escrow office, in keeping with the company's complete service concept, Hart said.

Irvine Company Largest 'New City' Builder in U.S.

The end of the sixties marked nearly 10 years of progress by The Irvine Company in building its "cities of tomorrow."

The master plan, covering an area larger than

Shields Homes Popular

homes, in one and two-story models.

Now showing the 1970 models, these homes, are close to a new elementary school and all of the other services. They are priced from $26,995.

Yorktown II is in Westminster and is almost sold out. These homes are priced from $27,500.

Although Shields has branched out into other fields, building homes is still his major concern. He takes a deep pride in all of his developments, which is in turn reflected in the pride of ownership among the buyers.

His credo is to "build a home that a family can really be happy in."

"If I can spend a few hundred dollars extra to make a liveable, salable house, then I've created a happy buyer and a happy buyer is the best kind — their referrals make the best salesmen in the business," he said.

Rancho Realtors to Meet

Next Thursday the Rancho Los Cerritos Board of Realtors will hear an address on "All-Inclusive Deeds of Trust" and the effect on the realty profession, according to Cliff Arkell, program chairman.

Speaker will be Arthur Munch of the Los Angeles Land Title Company, who formerly owned and operated his own mortgage company. Recipient of life teaching credentials, he is teaching courses in Real Estate Finance and Real Estate Practice at East Los Angeles College and Real Estate Law at North Hollywood Community School and Westchester Community School.

The meeting begins at 7:30 a.m. at Cerritos Junior College, 11110 E. Alondra Blvd., Norwalk.

San Francisco and Manhattan Island combined, was difficult to comprehend or evaluate during the early part of the 1960s.

However, about halfway through the decade the public became aware that something more than a subdivision was being built.

As the end of the sixties neared, the various parts of Irvine's "cities for tomorrow" became clearly evident and discernible: from the high-rise buildings at Newport Center, the downtown urban core; through the Irvine Industrial Complex and the University; to the thousands of homes gracefully placed around new parks, schools and shopping centers.

DEVELOPMENTS at Irvine are still so large in scope and size that they are difficult to comprehend, but a statistical summation of Irvine today as it enters the seventies reveals that this company is now the largest "new town" or "new city" builder in America.

Irvine's cities for tomorrow environment now includes:

More than 6,000 homes and apartment units, housing 25,000 residents; 280 industrial companies in the Irvine Industrial Complex, employing more than 14,000 people; 400 commercial and professional businesses, with 8,000 employees; five community shopping centers; six schools; 10 churches; and the University of California, Irvine, with 5,000 day and 5,000 evening students.

An important development is Newport Center, the 622-acre regional shopping, business, professional and financial center created as the urban downtown area for Irvine's cities of tomorrow.

NUMBERS tell just part of the story, however. At President Nixon's insistence, his Urban Affairs Council took an air and ground tour of Irvine.

At the conclusion of the tour, Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel said, "The Irvine property is a good example of what can be done."

For as Irvine's cities grow, the meticulous and innovative master planning becomes more obvious and more meaningful.

A people-oriented environment is being created in the six-part world of residential, industrial, commercial, agricultural, cultural and recreational developments — for 21st century living.

The pace of developments at Irvine is quickening, and 1969 was a record year.

More than 1,300 homes were sold, almost four per day. Fifty-three industries (one each week) purchased or leased land in the Irvine Industrial Complex this past year.

In the largest transaction, Xerox Corporation acquired 70 acres adjacent to its present 10-acre site.

LATE IN 1969, construction began on two major apartment complexes — the 1,302-unit Park Newport, and 1,245-unit University Park Apartments.

The year was also a big year for The Financial Plaza at Newport Center.

Irvine's twin nine-story buildings were completed and fully leased to some 90 companies, in office spaces ranging from 200 to 42,000 square feet.

Seaboard Finance Company and Pacific Mutual Life Insurance, two major national firms, announced plans to move to The Financial Plaza, and construction began on the $10 million Avco Financial Center (which will house Seaboard's headquarters).

Pacific Mutual acquired 10 acres of land for their building, which is now being designed.

TOTAL construction expenditures at Irvine for 1969 are estimated at approximately $67 million.

This is broken down as follows: single family homes, $36 million; multi-family residential, $3.5 million; Irvine commercial projects, $4.3 million; lessee-owned commercial projects, $2.7 million; industrial, $15.5 million; and miscellaneous (agricultural improvements, office furniture and fixtures, etc.), $3.5 million.

Furthermore, these are just 1969 expenditures. The total construction cost of all projects included above is estimated at $133 million.

In 1969, Irvine made other important contributions to the economy of Orange County in the form of property taxes. Irvine home owners paid an estimated $5.7 million; commerce and industry, $5.6 million; and $4.7 million was paid on agricultural lands and undeveloped properties.

That comes to a whopping $16 million in property taxes.

THE IRVINE Industrial Complex estimates that the combined payroll of industries in the complex exceeded $200 million in 1969.

In addition, the payroll of the commercial and professional businesses at Irvine is estimated to have exceeded $90 million for 1969.

Perhaps The Irvine Company's most important contribution, however, is the cities it is building for tomorrow — cities that combine convenience with the comfort and beauty of life in California as it was meant to be lived.

As Irvine looks to the seventies, a continuation of developments under its master plan is expected. From a ranch in 1960, to an emerging city in 1970 — that's Irvine's progress in the decade just ended.

Glenaire Sales Center Open

Sales and information center for the new 250-home community of Glenaire in Cerritos is now open at 183rd and Marquardt Streets.

Clyde Wixom, general sales manager for Robert H. Grant and Company, builders and developers, said four models now under construction are scheduled to open March 1.

Glenaire-Cerritos will contain two, three and four-bedroom homes, priced from $25,595, with FHA and VA financing available.

All homes in the project have been designed so they may be expanded in the future as the owner's needs change. At the time of purchase, the buyer will receive a set of plans for adding additional space to his house.

ANOTHER feature which has proved highly popular at other Grant Company communities in Cerritos, the "easement swap" also will be incorporated at Glenaire, Wixom said.

An "easement swap" is an exchange of property between adjoining neighbors which permits use of at least 50 per cent of the space normally wasted on straight lot line easements, he explained.

This trade will allow nearly half of the Glenaire-Cerritos homes to have large garden court side entries, which usually are found only at high priced communities with oversized lots, Wixom said.

ALL Glenaire-Cerritos homes will have fenced yards, quality nylon carpeting, all-electric kitchens with built-in ranges and dishwashers, vaulted living room ceilings, concrete driveways, insulated ceilings and wood paneled walls.

Many of the exteriors will be finished with decorative brick or stone work.

Executive Shift

NEW YORK (UPI) — How many U.S. businessmen are transferred overseas each year? According to Albert-Josef Schardl, president of Schardl Linguistic Systems, a nationwide firm specializing in tutoring business executives in foreign languages, the top 500 U.S. corporations transfer about 35,000 executives in and out of the country each year. The cost to relocate a man runs about $15,000, and 20 per cent of this is earmarked for language training.

Yukon Ore Find Revealed

The largest ore discovery in Canada's Yukon Territory since the Gold Rush of the 1890's was officially celebrated this week with ceremonies in Los Angeles observing the dedication of a major new lead, zinc and silver mining facility.

Representing a total investment in excess of $100 million, the new mine is operated by Anvil Mining Corporation, owned 60 per cent by Cyprus Mines Corporation of Los Angeles and 40 per cent Dynasty Explorations, Limited of Vancouver, B.C.

It is located at Faro, a newly-created town about 1,100 miles north of Seattle and Vancouver.

CLOSED-CIRCUIT television and communications satellite linked the events in seven ceremonies around the world — in Faro, Los Angeles, Tokyo, New York, Frankfurt, Vancouver and Ottawa.

The events culminated a six-year effort dating from initial exploration by Dynasty in 1964, the formation of a joint venture between Dynasty and Cyprus Mines in 1965 for further exploration and, finally, the development of the ore bodies by Anvil, which was incorporated in December, 1965.

Ground Broken for Signal Hill Industry

By BOB ANDREW

"Keep this shovel polished up because before we're through we intend to wear it off right up to the stepping point," industrial developer Lonnie Dunn told Signal Hill officials at groundbreaking for a 13-building industrial park.

The development on a 12.9-acre site at Hill Street and Redondo Avenue is a joint venture between Dunn Industrial Properties, a subsidiary of Pacific Lighting Service Co., and Newport Realty Corp., a subsidiary of Signal Properties, Inc.

DUNN said that Signal Properties owns several other parcels in Signal Hill and, if this first project meets expectations, other joint ventures may be arranged.

The $2.5 million Signal Hill Industrial Center East will include two large buildings for multiple tenancy and 11 others for individual tenancy.

All of the buildings will be concrete tilt-up construction with a semi-Spanish motif.

The complex is scheduled for completion about June and will provide a total of 249,331 square feet of floor space.

Dunn properties also has other projects under way in the Carson-Dominguez area, Santa Ana, Anaheim, Placentia, Fountain Valley, Burbank and City of Industry.

THE Signal Hill project is the first of four major projects totaling $25 million, including a bank, a department store and a 60-acre industrial park, which are scheduled to begin within the next several months.

Signal Hill has recently launched a $100 million community improvement project to raise the city's assessed valuation from its present $32 million to $100 million.

CAREER BUSINESSMAN

Always 'Man in the Middle'

From the moment a man gets his first promotion, he is a "man in the middle."

For the rest of his business career there is always someone for whom he is responsible, and someone to whom he is accountable, says Dr. Harry Levinson, Thomas Henry Carroll-Ford Foundation Distinguished Visiting Professor at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, and president of the Levinson Institute.

Along with the prestige of promotion, being a man in the middle creates a great number of problems, says Dr. Levinson.

One of the keys to solving some of these headaches, he believes, is an ability to develop and maintain a psychological distance. "It is natural to have feelings of compassion, but when acting only out of compassion, a man may well complicate matters."

THE MAN in the middle can ease his own psychological burdens and be more helpful to his subordinates if he can grasp the difference between sympathy and empathy.

OPENS FIRM
George Zebal, formerly with Philco-Ford's Newport Beach Aeronautics Division, has opened a consulting firm in Newport. His wife, Pat, is in public relations at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

For example, one might understand the anger of a man who has been fired from his job, without agreeing that it was wrong to fire him.

This and many other emotional problems executives are prey to on the way to the top, and after they attain success, are examined in a new book by Dr. Levinson titled "Executive Stress," published by Harper & Row.

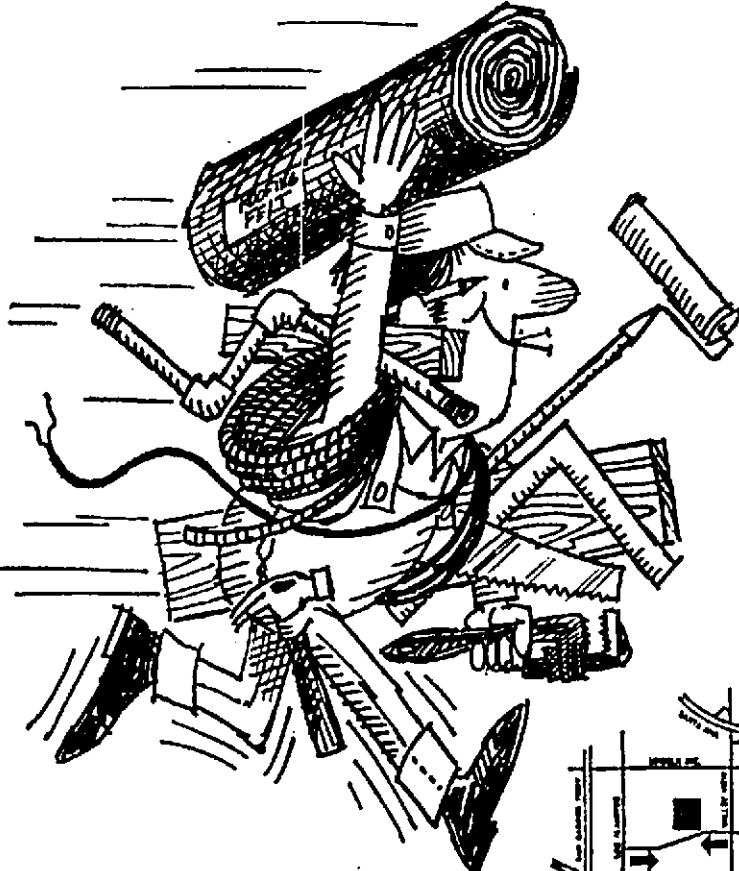

In his book, he demonstrates ways to recognize anger and control it, explains how self-doubt can be a great emotional cripple and analyzes why so many executives deny fear and push it into their unconscious, thereby becoming unable to cope with it effectively.

Preview showing of models at Troy Cerritos at Bloomfield Avenue and 195th Street in Cerritos will continue for another week, reports Fred C. Dodd, subdivision sales manager.

Troy Cerritos is a new 102-home community of The McCarthy Company designed to provide complete homes in the moderate price range.

Four completely furnished homes are in the model complex, including a Spanish type, an American Country style house, and two contemporary homes, said Dodd.

Models are open from 10:00 a.m. to dusk daily.

PRICE range from $28,950 to $34,950. Both one-story and two-story homes are featured with three to five bedrooms and three baths.

Visitors have been intrigued by the bright colors and the roominess of the homes, said Dodd.

"Today's family is searching for a home they can afford, but they demand the luxuries of interesting colors, different textures, liveable rooms, floor plans that really add to their comfort, and stylish exteriors that they can be proud of," explained Dodd.

"We try to give a rich house and a rich living home in the reasonable price range."

New Ownership for L.B. Store Fixture Company

Purchase of Long Beach Store Fixture Co., a major distributor of Food Service Equipment since 1927, has been announced.

Speaking for the new owners, a group of private investors, Fred W. Johnson, president and chief executive officer, said there would be no change in company policy or operations.

Johnson, president since July, 1969, cited the soon-to-be-completed store remodelling as the first step in an energetic sales campaign, designed to exploit the company's wide reputation for dependability and service.

IN ADDITION to Johnson, new owner-directors include Cyril Gail, D.D.S., Santa Monica, chairman; A. Ewing Konold, Ph.D., Tarzana, vice chairman, and James J. Farley, Tustin, secretary-treasurer.

Thomas E. Billhardt, Garden Grove, will continue as vice president.

"We are pleased," Johnson said, "that all present personnel have expressed a desire to continue and work toward our company's growth. Our outstanding sales team of seven men has a combined total of 147 years in the design, sale and distribution of food service equipment, a total of 74 years with this company."

There's Still Some Confusion in Discrimination Laws—Krueger

There seems to be some confusion in the minds of many people concerning racial discrimination in housing because of overlapping legislation and court decisions, says Jack Krueger, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

A United States Supreme Court decision handed down June 17, 1968, in Jones v. Mayer, held that a law enacted by the Congress in 1866 "bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property."

That language is clear enough and it can be enforced through the federal courts, Krueger said.

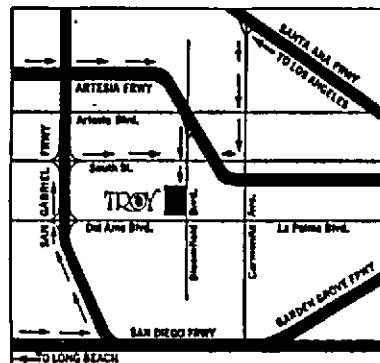

"As a Realtor, I hope that property owners realize that this is the law they must observe, and that any other laws that apply, are for the benefit of the complainant, not the property owner."

CALIFORNIA laws and the federal Civil Rights Act of 1968 outlaw racial discrimination in housing in a more limited way, and are still in effect, even though the Supreme Court decision blankets them all, Krueger added.

"Under those more limited laws, certain kinds of property owners are allowed to discriminate racially in choosing their buyers or renters. State and federal agencies named to enforce the laws feel, perhaps with justification that they must tell the public what they are authorized to enforce," he said.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Owner Is Hit by Inflation When Selling Properties

By DON CAMPBELL

On little cat feet, inflation has crept its way into our daily lives, and, once there, it has turned out to have the bite, not of a "little cat" at all, but the bone-jarring crunch of a saber-toothed tiger.

We see it in the form of a few extra cents in the price of meat, in the price of a car, in the cost of a theater ticket. But it really hits us between the eyes, when it takes a really big bite out of our pocketbook in one fell swoop.

MR. CAMPBELL:

"My wife and I are retired, and we bought a home here about two years ago during which time our daughter has finished college. With this financial burden behind us, we were going to sell our home.

We called a real estate man who told us we could get a satisfactory price for our homes, and, on the sale of which, he would get a 6 per cent commission. This is fair enough, but what gets me is the "points" he insists that I must give to the buyer.

Why should the person who has his home paid for be penalized so that the person who is buying the home can get it at the seller's expense? Our home is fully paid for.

With the real estate commission and the "points" we must give up — plus the improvements we have put into the home — we would not get what we paid for it two years ago. I don't understand how this can be. Can you explain it to me in some sort of logical way? — Mr. F.J.Z.

ANSWER: Inflation, as we said before, is the name of the game — and it's a vicious game with its own set of nasty rules.

The rat race known as the "points" system had its start when Congress set up the FHA and VA home loan programs and established maximum interest rates that were slightly under the prevailing interest rates for conventional mortgages. The theory was that lenders should be willing to accept a lower yield on these mortgages since they were guaranteed against loss by the federal government.

Okay. But, unfortunately, conventional interest rates kept steadily marching upward while the FHA and VA rates remained relatively fixed. Eventually, "riskless" or not, lenders began refusing FHA and VA mortgage applications without a "sweetener" — which the government grudgingly permitted them to impose.

This sweetener is simply a device to bring the effective interest rate on FHA and VA loans up to the yield realizable from a conventional mortgage.

What this means in the case of a 5-point "give-up" is that on buying, say, a $13,000 house, the lender actually advances the buyer $12,350 of that $13,000 mortgage, but the buyer, nevertheless, must pay the full $13,000 face value of the mortgage, plus interest, to maturity.

This means that the seller, having little choice in the matter if he wants to make the sale, has to scale his price down to accommodate this $650 gap created by the discount. Now, of course, we find lenders imposing discount points even on conventional mortgages.

The government's recent increase in the FHA and VA interest rates to 8½ per cent (actually, 9 per cent in the case of FHA loans since a one-half point add-on is made to cover mortgage insurance) is a belated realization of the problem and was put into effect in order to eliminate the points which so cruelly discriminate against today's sellers.

Whether it will work, or merely encourage lenders to increase conventional mortgage rates again — and create another point-gap — is anybody's guess.

Unhappily, the past pattern has been exactly that: for conventional mortgage rates to leapfrog slightly ahead of the new FHA and VA rates and put the seller right back into the same old bind. How's it going to end? No one knows, of course. Ultimately, many experts feel, there is going to have to be an over-all reduction in interest rates or the entire home building (and real estate) industry is going to be in deep, deep trouble.

This is one reason why President Nixon has been so stubborn in insisting that there must be a reversal of the inflationary trend gripping the country today, regardless of temporary hardships that may be created in the process.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I recently put my house up for sale with a local real estate broker, but it wasn't until after I had signed the agreement that I realized that the sale will be handled through something known as "Multiple Listing."

When I asked him about this, he assured me that it merely meant that about three-fourths of the other brokers in town would also be trying to sell my property.

I can't say that I like this arrangement at all. My understanding was that I would pay a flat percentage of the sale price as the commission, but I never counted on having to pay a second broker — if the one I signed with doesn't make the sale himself.

Is there any way I can get out of this agreement without getting into a legal bind? — Mrs. S. W.

ANSWER: Don't worry about it. The multiple-listing technique for selling real estate is quite well established, quite successful, and thoroughly ethical.

It is merely the pooling effort of a group of real estate brokers — members of your local Multiple Listing Service — who cooperate in pushing each other's properties.

This means that while your listing is shared by many brokers, you'll still pay only the one commission — to the broker actually selling the property. The broker's commission, after the deduction of a small portion to cover the operating expenses of the MLS, is split with the selling broker normally receiving about 60 per cent of the gross commission and the listing broker (the one you signed the agreement with) getting about 40 per cent. Naturally, if your listing broker is also the selling broker, he'll get the entire commission less the MLS charge.

No sweat — it may speed up the sale of your house appreciably.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I recently rented a three-bedroom apartment of mine to what seemed to be a perfectly agreeable young couple with two small children.

They had no sooner taken occupancy, however, than I began receiving a whole lot of bills for painting, remodeling, and what-have-you which I did not authorize.

When I protested to the tenant, and told him that he would have to pay these bills himself, he became furious and insisted that it was my responsibility as the landlord to provide him and his family with what he called "livable" quarters.

Now, I'll admit that this isn't the most luxurious and best-maintained apartment in town — it's a relatively old building, and previous tenants have been rough on it — but I can't see any basis for his logic, nevertheless. Or is there something in this business, after all these years, that I don't understand? — Mr. K.L.K.

ANSWER: You've simply had the good fortune in "all those years" in not running up against this type of tenant before. He's trying to pull a fast one on you.

The condition of the apartment was quite apparent to him when he rented it, and unless you made him some firm verbal, or written, promises about undertaking the improvements he has instituted, he doesn't have a leg to stand on.

I suggest that you have your attorney bundle the bills up and send them back to the tenant for payment.

MR. CAMPBELL:

Shame on you for trying to discourage the couple who wanted to build their own house!

My husband and I have almost finished our house — three bedrooms, two baths, electric kitchen, utility room, air conditioning, etc. It was the most fun I have ever had. We are not past 50 years old. I recommend it to every couple, although it would have been much easier if we had been half our present age. Our forefathers built their own homes, cleared their land and eked out a living also. I disagree with you on specialists. I have been stung by too many of them.

nary person who is inclined to work hard enough can build a house. — Mrs. T.Y.

ANSWER: Could be! On the other hand, though, the letter that prompted my original reply was from a couple whose total construction experience amounted to the building of a garage and the refinishing of a recreation room.

Anything is possible, and I concede that with enough determination, study — and some inherent talent — anyone can build a house of sorts. Having sat through any number of training films on how to set a broken leg, however, I would still prefer to leave the job to someone who really knows what he is doing.
